THE POELE ZION PARTY

The Poele Zion party is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization and appearance on the Jewish scene. Last Saturday night, the Toronto branch fittingly commemorated the occasion. During the next few months adherents and supporters throughout the world will indulge in festive exercises to mark the stage in the history of the movement.

Ever since its inception, the Poele Zion organization has wielded an inordinate influence on the trend of Jewish life. Though of limited numerical proportions, it has served as a leaven in the domain of nationalist activities. Its intensity and trenchant purposiveness have had a galvanizing effect on the less spirited bulk of Zionist membership.

There were three basic features about the organization which made for its strength and effectiveness: First, its ideology consisted of a synthesis of two definitely important aspects of Jewish life, and its program was clear-cut and concrete. Its theoretic basis was the harmonization of the ideas of Jewish nationalism and of socialism. Secondly, dealing as it did with two such powerful motives as Zionism and socialism in a combined form, it had under its sway a very considerable portion of the emotional content and intellectual interests of its subjects. Playing on the socialist and Zionist strings of an inspired membership, it was able to bring forth basic harmonies. Thirdly, owing to the socialist taint of its program, it could and did direct its appeal only to the special and definite class which was amenable to socialist doctrine. Poele Zionism was a proletarian movement and addressed itself to a section of life where its vicariary was always understood and appreciated.

Poele Zionism impressed itself on its surroundings because of its appearance of sincerity and intensiveness. Ordinary Zionism looked pale alongside of it. There are too many Zionists whose Zionism is merely a phylactery that can be put on and taken off without leaving any mark on its wearer. They keep their Zionism in a container. They play with it on occasion. It is not a part of their being; it has not dissolved in their blood and marrow; it has not integrated itself in their psychological nature; it is a foreign substance. The Poele Zion, on the other hand took their Zionism more seriously. Belonging to the proletariat they were constantly aware of the presence of their economic problems. And since Zionism was by the formula of Poele Zionism become fused with their economic ideals they could not free themselves from the pervasive presence of the Zionist ideal. Their daily socialist bread was permeated with the taste of Zionism. Therefore reciprocally their Zionism had the reality of their bread.

While being thus appreciative of the significance and value of Poele Zionism in the economy of Jewish movements we cannot, nevertheless, fail to recognize that at the present time, it is already on the decline. During the past few years, one could not help noticing that Poele Zionism had spent itself and was for the most part living on the glory of its past achievements. There were occasions upon occasions when we looked to it for the accustomed inspiring utterance or gesture. But its voice came hollow, and its words flat and meaningless.

There are several reasons that account for the decadence of Poele Zionism. The process is natural and inevitable.

Poele Zionism was a synthesis of Zionism and socialism. It impregnated the latter with the former. Now, with the stoppage of immigration to America, the social and economic type or class to which Poele Zionism made its special appeal, has been denied its source of reinforcements. The original leavening is gradually diminishing, as many of its members are graduating into other social strata. It is undeniable that as members become affluent,

TORONTO AND MONTREAL JEWRIES—A CONTRAST

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath

Although no doubt there were many persons who took exception to our rather searching criticism of Toronto Jewry contained in the editorial entitled "Now It Can Be Told" recently printed in these columns, no more eloquent substantiation of our contention could possibly be educed than is to be found in the most gratifying results of the drive just completed in Montreal for their Federation of Jewish Philanthropies. Notwithstanding the fact that there too business depression might well have been urged as a weak and anaemic subterfuge, notwithstanding the fact that the stock market is no higher there than here, they not only reached their objective, but went gloriously over the top of their Three Hundred Thousand Dollar quota by Three or Four Thousand Dollars. And we must not forget either that during the past year Montreal Jewry likewise oversubscribed a Million Dollar drive for a new hospital. What a fine community spirit must maintain in our sister city in Quebec; a spirit which might well be emulated here in Toronto.

What then is the matter in our community? We are a smaller settlement, it will be urged. Granted . . . but even proportionately we have done not nearly so well as they have in Montreal. We are so much poorer, will be our added rejoinder. Perhaps we are, but we have our goodly share of wealth likewise, and surely their most affluent Jewish citizens have been similarly affected by the present downward trend of stocks and securities, and yet, on the wake of subscribing over a million dollars for a hospital, they enthusiastically and zealously carry their Federation Drive well beyond its objective. To us, there seems but one honest answer. We lack in Toronto the proper leadership among our favored few; leadership that will actually sacrifice and thus stir the masses to similar heroic action. Such things are positively contagious and were we to have this commanding and self-sacrificing leadership, our drives Zionist, Boys' Camp, Federation would not be such dismal failures. As giving is contagious, so is retrenchment, and that is what happened to us this year. Retrenching in the high places spread like wild fire through the ranks and the results were heart-breaking. Our heartiest felicitations must be extended to the Montreal community for so valiantly rising to the occasion this year to surpass, in two great drives, their expectations, and for having redeemed for Canadian Jewry our rather precarious reputation for philanthropy. Our fondest hopes must likewise be expressed that Toronto Jewry will, in the future, emulate this noble example and launch forth anew with eyes high and hearts surging with sympathy and sacrificial spirit to cope adequately for the pressing needs of our community.

We do hope that our lesson has been learned, and that this "education-al process" need not be endlessly prolonged. "Now It Can Be Told" was true. Who can challenge its contentions now? Toronto reached less than half its objective. Montreal's quota was oversubscribed. What a contrast! Need aught else be said?

"THE BEAR THAT WALKS LIKE A MAN"

It is an overworked phrase that the Russian Jews are today [illegible] Winston Churchill designates them as a "foreign virus and a suppressed scum," as a "monster in whose veins a real explosive mood flows." On every hand we are being treated to an intense and as unserious a propaganda as has ever been directed to arouse a reading world, a gaping fear, a bitter antagonism toward any —and that is just one reason why things neither OI K nor come back clothes one has longer

Six hundred gallons of filtered rain soft water is our average for each family washing. The water is changed over and over again from nine to twelve times depending on the needs.

Each fabric receives the laundering process proper best by scientific tests. Colors that are suspected of not being fast are washed separately. Silks woolens, etc., are given special handling.

Such care as this insures longer life for your clothes. And it costs surprisingly little. Call for a salesman and let him help you choose the particular service that fits your requirements and your budget.

Early in November Albert Einstein, still in Berlin, expressed his grateful thanks for the numerous friendly invitations that came to him from all over the United States in connection with his visit there and declined them all with regret. It would be impossible for him to accept the scores of invitations to address banquets, receptions, and public affairs of any kind. The same day Einstein said that, the Jewish community of Pasadena, California, where he is to lecture at the Technical High School began laying plans for a fitting welcome to a great Jewish genius. Rabbi Henry L. Radlin, leader of Temple Israel, cabled the following greeting: "Pasadena Jewish community greatly honored by your coming and is anxious to help make your visit to Southern California pleasant. We are proud to welcome you. Our facilities are at your disposal." Pending a reply from Dr. Einstein, the officers and members of the Board of Directors of Temple Israel and the officers of all other Jewish organizations in Pasadena planned to meet and arrange a formal welcome that would be a formal welcome in every sense of the word, no doubt.

There is at once something ludicrous and something pathetic about such a cable to such a man and the well-meant desire to greet him as a genius should be greeted, at any cost, too, most likely. It shows good heart and at the same time a complete dearth of imagination. The people who would exhaust themselves gladly (and spend more money than they would ever give to the needy) over what they would consider a suitable welcome to a Jewish genius, would find it hard to understand that the best way to make Einstein's stay in California pleasant would be to keep away from him and not bother him. Told that, they would be hurt. Some would persist in the welcome anyway not because Einstein needs it but because they do. At present writing Einstein has not reached Pasadena but this column is betting on the Jewish community there.

Einstein himself has said that he lives alone. There are no stories about how erratic he is or how peculiar and difficult from the human standpoint as there often are about a great genius, but Einstein seems less dependent upon the ordinary human relationships than do other men in his very narrow stratum. His wife is said to be a hausfrau who does not hold the theory of relativity against him. She once said in an interview that she was not much concerned with it or the fact that she could not understand it. She considers it her duty to take care of her husband and make a proper home for him. She regards him with consideration, takes him as he is and understands that he lives within himself on such tremendous resources that, although forever alone, he can never be lonely. What the life that goes on about him in this world is just a back drop for great men. Unless it arranges itself in a certain way it can be very annoying to him. Above all it should be simple and quiet, evidently, for him to enjoy a necessary detachment.

Einstein does not want to be followed about or worshipped or made a fuss over. He left Berlin in the night for Antwerp and the hour of his departure was kept secret. Four people saw him off, three of them members of his family. On board the Belgenland he asked angrily: "Why can't I have privacy like any other human being?" when American newspaper reporters came on board at Southampton to escort him to New York. Notifying them that he would not say a word, he went into his cabin and told the steward not to allow any one to bother him. Frau Einstein, who is with him, said: "My husband is tired of being hunted. We feel miserable being trapped even at sea." She said that of course they would not attend any dinners in New York although they did want to see the city.

Any plain words a famous man utters are like apples of gold in pictures of silver to newspaper reporters and so it has been duly recorded that as the ship left Antwerp, Einstein said: "I must watch the steamer pulling out." Later, in his cabin, the three rooms of which were choked with flowers, cables and gifts, he took up the present that seemed to interest him most. It was an oyster shell engraved in Hebrew with the Shield of David and it came from an anonymous admirer. After that he and his research assistant lost themselves in mathematical work. At another time perhaps it was music instead of mathematics since Einstein is a fine violinist.

Before the scientist sailed for America he sent a cabled greeting to the Zionist Organization for the Maccabean Festival December 14 at Madison Square Garden in New York. In it he expressed his disappointment at the British attitude toward Palestine and his hope that Arab-Jewish relations in Palestine would be improved. He said all there is to say at this time on the question so that's that. It is to be hoped that the great scientist's wish for privacy will be respected in this country and that overzealousness will have the good taste not to intrude on a person who wants to be aloof.

THE SCHOOL AGREEMENT

The Montreal Protestant School Board and the Jewish School Commission have, the past week, concluded a new agreement. This contract will be known as the 1930 settlement and is to be operative for a period of seven years (subject to renewal), during which period Jewish children are to attend Protestant Schools by right, without segregation and without discrimination. There are other clauses in this agreement seemingly important and he who runs may read them. Of course this new contract has many new added features which are not already embodied in the 1903 Act, but under the political and other circumstances which the Province of Quebec finds itself at present this is the most possible temporary solution of a most vexing historic question. But it is far from a just settlement from the point of view of democratic government. Jews as abiding and loyal citizens, paying taxes, are still denied representation on School Boards.

CHANUKAH

Sunday Evening we usher in once more the solemn festival of Chanukah. The most important lesson of this celebration is just this—that is no power which can triumph over conscience, that thought, in reality, can never be fettered. The Syrian King attempted to suppress Jewish thought and religious idealism but met with defeat.

Of course many Jewish people misconstrue, in Chanukah, the note of military heroism. They hear of Judas Maccabeus as a great Jewish general and speak of him in one breath with Napoleon and other militarists.

But the truth of the matter is just this. The great man in Israel, were not men of spiritual heroism, men of love, living, the men of peace, men far above Maccabeus, the man of militarism.

As we kindle our Chanukah lights let us consecrate ourselves once more to truth and freedom of mind and bring new light from God into a world of darkness.

AN EDITORIAL FROM THE "TORONTO STAR"

The Remarkable Story of an Immigrant Family

In 1905 a poor Russian family left the ghetto of Moscow to try their fortunes in Canada—father and mother and four sons, the eldest six years old. Two other children were born at Windsor, Ont., where the family settled, and the six offsprings of Hillel and Minnie Cecil are to-day occupied as follows:

Born in Russia

—, aged 31, a lawyer in Windsor, has just been elected mayor of that city. He is a graduate of Osgoode Hall.

—, aged 28, is an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist in Detroit. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, with post-graduate experience in New York General Hospital and Johns Hopkins, Baltimore.

—, aged 26, is practising dentistry in Detroit. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, with post-graduate course at the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Toronto.

—, aged 25, is an orthodontia specialist in Detroit. He graduated from the University of Michigan and spent a year at Ellis Island, New York.

Born in Canada

—, aged 22, is to graduate in law at the end of this year, Osgoode Hall.

—, aged 20, the only girl of the family, is a dental hygienist in Detroit.

Surely this constitutes a remarkable record—the record of a family who came to Canada twenty-four years ago with practically nothing, to-day just managing to keep the wolf from the door for years, and the most successful business men of Windsor to help out the family name. David, the seventh member of Windsor, was selling papers only seven years ago. He put into his summer through public school, high school and Osgoode Hall, but found time to "make" the school teams on his own grounds and played football, baseball and basketball. He is said to be the first Jew to be elected mayor of a Canadian city.

The New

The New Hoffman Model "V"

The new Model "V" is the easiest operating Pressing machine available today. This ease of operation has been accomplished largely by the advantageous location of a single spring and by the finely balanced lever system. The action of the head is much smoother and there are no "dead spots." The massive frame of the new Model "V" provides much more space between the buck and the back board of the table. This makes it a very roomy press and a convenient one on which to handle bulky garments.

The rugged buck support provides plenty of clearance under the buck. And nowhere are there any projections such as bolt heads which might cause garments to catch and tear. The piping to and from the buck is entirely shielded by a neat sheet metal guard. Your hands and the garments you are pressing cannot come in contact with hot steam pipes.

A new automobile-type shock absorber checks the motion of the head as it opens. Due to the special design, the shock absorber allows the head to fly swiftly open and then brings it to a smooth, silent stop.

The pressure adjustment consists of a hand wheel conveniently located just above the head. You can reach it without bending over when you stand in front of the press. The lever system is stronger and the pins are larger, giving greater bearing surfaces and reducing wear. All bearing points are fitted with bronze oil less bearings of a grooved design with graphite packed into the grooves. Model "V" oils itself.

A simple but rugged mechanism enables the operator of the Model "V" to operate the head steam valve by means of a foot pedal as well as the customary valve handle. This feature makes the steaming of shoulders far more convenient.

These are some of the reasons why the new Model "V" sets a new standard of comparison. There is no other press like it; it is the press you have been waiting for.

Hoffman Presses have been manufacturing in Canada for a quarter of a century. Investment in Hoffman equipment, expresses your confidence in Canadian craftsmanship.

Montreal Women Tell How They Earned Donations For The TempleEmanu-El Sisterhood Fund

Mrs. S. Medine, (above), 2076 Sherbrooke Street West, and Mrs. Emil Regal, 4326 Sherbrooke Street West, earned the most money, $34.75. They were joint hostesses at a bridge at Temple House on July 29. They were assisted in serving by Mesdames H. Pickleman, M. L. Russell, John Michael, and Misses Beatrice Kaplan and Helen Kohos. Salads, coffee and cake comprised the menu.

Mrs. J. P. Levee, 4065 Vendome Avenue, taxied friends to and from the Elm Ridge Golf charging fifty cents each.

Mrs. E. P. Van Guen, 1455 Drummond Street, relieved the stenographer in her husband's office for a few days during the summer, contributing the amount earned to the Sisterhood.

Mrs. Louis Wolfe, (above), Marlowe Ave., Mrs. J. Wiener, (right) and Mrs. Maurice Cohen realized $22 by entertaining at a keno and bridge at the home of Mrs. Louis Wolfe, 309 Marlowe Avenue. Sandwiches, cake, coffee and cold drinks were served.

Mrs. Jerome Lewinson, 5010 Sherbrooke St. West, President of the Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood, says: "I planned a little party for eight ladies during the summer at the country home of my sister, Mrs. Alex Friedman, at Pointe Claire. During the late afternoon the ladies played bridge under the trees on the lawn, refreshed by the cool breezes from the lake, and by long cool drinks in tall glasses. A supper was served at 6.30, with the following menu: salmon salad with corn on the cob, honeydew melon, cake and coffee. After supper the guests continued cards outdoors. I charged one dollar for each cover, and together with two dollars which I earned by motoring friends to the Laurentian Mountains charging $1 for the return trip, I was able to contribute $10 to the Sisterhood treasury."

Mrs. Jack Fitch, 5456 Grove Hill Place, with her three children, Phyllis, aged 10; Maxwell, aged 13; and Burton, aged 15. Mrs. Fitch, who is a member of Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood, earned $15 by raffling a raincoat. She sold tickets at twenty-five cents, telling those who bought them that the winner (whether man, woman or child) could choose any size coat. Mrs. M. Simon, the winner, chose a coat for her young son.

Mrs. J. N. Neumann, left, 204 Cote Ste. Antoine Road, vice-president of the Sisterhood and Mrs. Albert Michael, right, 65 Vendome Avenue, collaborated in this way, says the former: "Our money was earned by giving a bridge and keno at my home. We regretted the fact that the affair took place at a time when many people were away for the summer. However, as a special attraction, the R-100 dirigible decided to tour the city that afternoon and at one time flew right along Cote Ste. Antoine Road. The news spread among our guests and for quite a while bridge and keno became a second consideration. As a matter of fact I am sure that whoever was a loser at the time of the ship's appearance remained a loser, since there was not time left for recuperation. We should have collected exhibition fee for the dirigible. In all we earned $15.25."

Mrs. Arthur Simon, left, 366 Kitchener Avenue, and Mrs. Sol Vineberg, right, 3469 Prudhomme Avenue. "Mrs. Vineberg and I earned our money for The Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood this way: We decided upon a luncheon with card games after, making a charge of one dollar for lunch and twenty-five cents extra for the privilege of playing. We made $31.50 and it was hard-earned money but a real pleasure."

Mrs. H. W. Robinson, 650 McEachran Avenue, made $8 by giving an afternoon tea and bridge. Salads were served, followed by a frozen desert. Covers were fifty cents each.

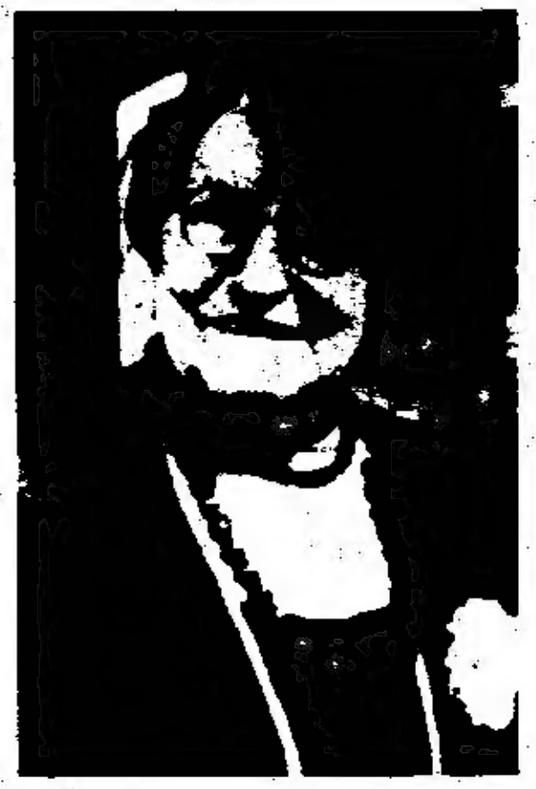
Mrs. Rose Blumenthal, 63 Strathearn Ave., Montreal, West, tells how she earned her contribution as follows:

"When with dismay, I did learn
That a five dollar bill I must earn
For our Sisterhood,
Just how to make good
Was a matter which caused me concern.

Till a bright thought did flash thro' my brain,
A raffle those dollars will gain,
I'll mix up and bake
A fancy fruit cake
And start up my money campaign.

My efforts did meet with success,
Each one I approached answered "Yes,
A ticket I'll take."
So I raffled the cake,
And that's my whole story, I guess."

Mrs. Lyon E. Heillig, 1469 Drummond Street, says: "I contributed $10 to the Sisterhood Fund as my boy attends Temple Emanu-El Sunday School, although we are not members of the Temple. I am now a member of the Sisterhood."



Mrs. Anna Rost, (above), who together with her daughter, Mrs. W. N. Carin, 5812 Durocher Street, enriched the treasury by $10, as the result of a lawn party held at their summer home at Pointe Claire during August. Sandwiches, cakes and drinks were served.

Mrs. S. Mailman, 4565 Sherbrooke St. West, donated $5 to the fund. She came here not very long ago from Utica, N.Y.

Mrs. Maxwell Goldstein, 2150 Sherbrooke Street West, donated $5 to the Sisterhood.

Mrs. Michael Hirsch, 1390 Sherbrooke Street West, earned $10 "By being thrifty. There were many articles which I found it necessary to purchase and I went where I could get these things at a lower price. The savings I effected in this way totalled $5 which I gave to the Sisterhood, with another $5 which I donated."

Mrs. M. Margolick, 478 Roslyn Avenue, realized $10 by the sale of discarded clothing.

Mrs. J. C. Asch, Grosvenor Avenue, arranged bouquets of flowers from the garden of her country estate, "Casa Juanetta" at Dorval, which she sold to friends, netting $6 for the treasury.

Mrs. I. Friedman, 2174 Sherbrooke Street West, donated $5.

Mrs. Leon Shure, 704 Girouard Avenue, says: "I earned $5 for the Sisterhood by selling some old clothing. An advertisement in the newspapers brought me several buyers for discarded clothes.

Mrs. Charles Redlich, 92 Sherbrooke Street West, made and raffled a child's white crepe de chine dress, which was won by Mrs. M. Cohen, of Harvard Avenue, netting $6.

Mrs. Aaron Schwartz, 4689 Westmount Blvd., who taxied friends to the Elm Ridge Golf Club, earned $10.

Mrs. Gus Fischel, 3 Winchester Avenue, says.
"Our Treasury in need of funds, decided on a plan
Which we all know is rather old
To raise what money each one could
And this way aid our Sisterhood.

All summer members had a scheme
Their money for to earn
Some chauffered ladies to the club
And charged them fifty cents return.

Others did a mah jongg give
While some had bridge as well as keno
Some ladies raffled works of art
And some with cooking did their part.

Today we all are gathered here
Each one her system to unfold
I trust the coffers will be full
When all our stories have been told.

I thought of many, many ways
My $5 for to earn
And finally I ladies sought
Who contract bridge might wish to learn.

I walked around that Elm Ridge Club
And hardly one I missed
To tell them I could contract teach
And could their name go on my list.

Some came and gave their name to me
And said they wished it "later on"
Still others when the charge I'd show
Just smiled and said they'd let me know.

I really never knew before
How many would be glad to learn
If one would give up all their time
But not the money wish to earn.

But finally I did succeed
Four ladies came to me
And if you think I could not teach,
Just play with them and see."

Miss Mae Hyman, 4044 Tupper Street, earned her quoto by taxi-ing ladies to the Elm Ridge Golf and Country Club, charging them fifty cents each. Among her passengers were Mesdames Maxwell Goldstein, Annie Saxe, E. C. Goldstein, Dave Roskam, and Misses Rose Vineberg and Muriel Goldstein.

Mrs. M. Dobrofsky, 1205 Crescent Street, earned $5 by arranging an afternoon bridge on the lawn of her summer home at Dorval.

Mrs. Arthur Friedman, 635 Lansdowne Avenue, raffled an orange bridge table cover with fitted pads and pencils, which was won by Mrs. H. Tarshis, 579 Roslyn Avenue. Mrs. Friedman charged twenty-five cents for two tickets, bringing in a total amount of $5.65.

Mrs. Bernard Rose, 322 Wilson Avenue, who contributed $12 says: "I gave a bridge of six tables and charged fifty cents for each cover. Mrs. T. S. Rose assisted me in serving."

Mrs. A. A. Abrahams, 4435 Sherbrooke Street West, says: "I earned $10 for the Sisterhood by selling 100 chances at ten cents each for a baby's sweater which I knitted. The sweater was made of white and blue wool in sacque fashion with a border of a fancy stitch and was finished with a ribbon bow at the neck. It was won by Miss Leah Asner, Sherbrooke Street West."

Mrs. L. Blumer, 3415 Vendome Avenue, donated the required amount out of money which she had saved by practicing various economies.

Mrs. J. Roston, 215 Girouard Avenue, Notre Dame de Grace, raffled a chocolate cake which netted $4 and which was won by Mrs. M. Myers, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who was visiting her neice, Mrs. M. Margolick, 478 Roslyn Avenue. The cake was served at an informal gathering at the home of Mrs. Margolick one Friday evening after Temple services. Rabbi Stern was present together with Arthur Meyerowitz of New York, the chairman of the Board of Finance of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Lewinson. Mrs. Roston further increased her earnings by making and boxing candied grape fruit peel which she sold at fifty cents a box. In all she contributed $6.

Sketches of Interesting People in the Jewish Community of Toronto

By Lena Soltz

Mrs. Percy Hermant

Mrs. Percy Hermant was twenty years old when she came to Toronto as a bride. The first thing she set about doing when she arrived here was to look for a young married set. Such circles of young couples were not as easily recognizable as they are now, so, not finding her young people, Mrs. Hermant joined the Council of Jewish Women. She enjoyed the work from the beginning and the elderly ladies too, but they were not the most congenial companions for a young and active girl. It was not until several years later that she found her niche and was able to feel at home in the social life of Toronto.

No other movement has interested her more than the Jewish Girls' Club. From the two rooms in Walton Street which was the first home of the club, to the larger quarters on McCaul Street and then to the present spacious home on St. George Street. Mrs. Hermant watched its growth with the love and care a mother extends on her child.

This sagacious woman believes the best way to get a thing done is to do it without preamble or hesitancy. It was decided at a meeting one day that a summer place for the girls of the club was necessary. Mrs. Hermant took it upon herself to see what she could do. Coming across Surrey Cottage at Bronte one day, she was so captivated by it that she put in an offer without consulting anyone. She even paid down a sum of money to show her good faith.

When she acquainted the members of the club with what she had done there was an uproar. She began to be a little afraid then that she had taken too much in her own hands but, nevertheless, with real fighting spirit she set about to sell the idea as it was sold to her. Several women looked at the cottage and like Mrs. Hermant saw the possibilities of the place. Time has proved that Mrs. Hermant's buy was one of the good things done in the club. Not only does it afford a lovely holiday place for 200 girls a season, but it pays for itself!

Mrs. Hermant recalls an interesting incident in 1914 when Sir Herbert Samuel was coming to Toronto to perform some governmental duty. It was at the same time the club on McCaul Street was to be opened officially. The women thought it would be nice to have Sir Herbert open the club-house. Arrangements were made for the opening ceremonies to take place on a certain day. There was a tremendous amount of work to be accomplished in a short time and money and help were scarce to Mrs. Sigmund Samuel and Mrs. Solomon Jacobs, wife of Rabbi Jacobs, who organized the Council of Jewish Women, washed and scrubbed the floors themselves. Their spirit, zeal and enthusiasm are the kind of qualities that appeal to Mrs. Hermant.

Mrs. Hermant's pet hobby is the Girls' Club. She has been chairman for the past eight years. Her pet aversion is for collecting money. She is very fond of music and is on the committee of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

This energetic lady comes from Montreal. She was Dorothy Morris and one of eight children. She attended the Montreal High School and is a graduate of the Royal Victoria College. She has one son, Sydney, who is eighteen years old and is now attending Varsity taking political science. He is not going to follow a political career, however, and expects to step into his father's business. Their home is at 212 Heath Street West.

Mrs. Hermant is one of Toronto's busy hostesses. A big variety of people comes to visit her. Perhaps it is because the hostess herself is very cosmopolitan, widely travelled and with her eyes and ears open for the great doings, new movements and thoughts of the day. The girls at the Club talk to her with the same lack of self-consciousness that her other friends do. Physically she is a small woman but vibrant with an aggressive sense of responsibility and the power and determination to see a project through to a creditable finish. She appears to be the sort of person who will not ask a worker to do something she herself would not do. Her long experience in communal work and her personal reliability must immediately give strength to any cause. In this she is like her sister, Mrs. A. J. Alexandor, of Montreal, who died this year leaving a feeling of heavy loss in many corners of the community.

MRS. DAVID VISE

Presiding over the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. David Vise on Deverill Avenue in the new Forest Hill district of Toronto, is a homemaker who was once a trained nurse. Although she had been in this new house for a mere matter of days, Mrs. Vise had furnished the library and made it look as though the family had been at ease there for a long, leisurely time. While other rooms waited, there was at least one room where a fellow could retreat from paint, bustle and household arranging just as though none of this necessary evil was going on. Books were placed in the unique nooks carved out of the wall and before the low, English fire-place an oriental rug and soft chesterfield invited you to be comfortable and informal and to renew your spirits. Behind this charming scene many tasks went on under the hand, eye and supervision of a young woman who was once awarded the Murray Guggenheim Medal for General Proficiency at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York. You can wager with safety that the whole time it was being done the maid was in a white apron that rattled with efficiency injected by a woman who once was trained to appear efficient or not at all.

Mrs. Vise believes that the nurses' training she received has helped unquestionably in her home-making. She knows the kind of material to select in the way of help and what to expect of it once selected. She will expend time and energy on a girl because, with her own ideas of efficiency, she could not be placid in a home where this quality was lacking. Mrs. Vise must be the envy of many other mothers who are often at a loss to know what to do in the face of the ordeals and sudden alarms that accompany the upbringing of a child. Once young Herbert Vise, now a handsome youth of about four, fell off the cement stoop in front of the house and scraped the flesh off his face almost to the bone. While someone else sat on the tortured little one to keep him still, his mother, with a great deal of fortitude, applied the necessary treatment to the spot. Another time when the little boy contracted a skin disease from playing with a wandering cat, his mother was able to clear up this condition in ten days without medical aid, when two months is the length of time usually required to accomplish the cure.

Mrs. Vise (who was Florence Lavine, of New York) believes that for character-building nothing equals the sort of training a nurse must receive. She thinks that Jewish girls, although bright and capable, do not make the best nurses. They do not stay at it long enough, for one thing. Mrs. Vise herself was married a year after she graduated from Mount Sinai Hospital, having met her husband (an accountant) at a hospital dance. After she came to Toronto to live she did some medical social service work. Her only sister is also a graduate of Mount Sinai Hospital in New York having also won a Guggenheim prize and also a husband soon after graduation and also a trip to Europe eventually as did Mrs. Vise before her.

This young matron belongs to Hadassah and works with interest and attention at whatever is apportioned to her. She loves music and the theatre, is very sociable and friendly and has a zest for life and fun, a priceless quality in home-makers.

SELIG GROSS

A merchant in this country who possesses culture, a wide knowledge of affairs, a broad humanitarianism, deep religious fervor and a strict moral code, is rare. Yet here in Toronto there is such a man in the person of Selig Gross, a diamond merchant with offices in the Federal Building on Richmond Street. Mr. Gross comes from Antwerp, Belgium. His excellent English is tinged with an accent, which only tends to heighten the charm of his speech. He speaks several languages fluently.

In the Old Country Mr. Gross was an impassioned Zionist. He belonged to a group of young men comprised mostly of students from the ages of 14 to 28, who studied, breathed, slept and ate Zionism. So imbued had he become with this doctrine that years later when he came to America he never propounded it even when goaded. It was impossible for him to see how a Jew could be anything but a Zionist. Yet in Toronto he is not active in the movement. He thinks that there is a great difference between the European Zionist and the American or Canadian Zionist. In Europe the elements of culture, idealism and romance are the predominating factors in the movement, while here it is reduced almost exclusively to a status of money-giving and money-getting.

Of material things the American and Canadian Jews have given most generously, much more so than have the Europeans. Even in proportion to their relative wealth, the American Jew has given more. The reason for this, Mr. Gross believes, is not because the European is less enthusiastic. To see this one need only look at the young students who left more advantageous positions and more promising futures as doctors, lawyers and merchants to become road-builders and ditch-diggers in Palestine. Because the position of the European Jew is so precarious and uncertain he knows that if anything should happen, as it frequently does to these Jews, they would have to fall back upon their material wealth to buy protection for themselves.

The Jewish youth of Toronto, of the next generation, will be better Zionists than their parents, Mr. Gross says, giving credit to the Young Judaea organization, to whom he has lectured. Members of the present day youth movements will know something of the history, the philosophy and the meaning of Zionism. When they take their places in the community as Zionists, it will not be necessary to resort to these periodical campaigns in order to arouse the people into a money-giving mood. There will be a steady support from the next generation of people, based on an understanding and knowledge of the real needs of Palestine.

Mr. Gross is an Orthodox Jew, and although he is a member of the University Synagogue, he seldom attends the services there except on the High Holidays. He is to be found, rather, at the services of the Young Israel, an organization of young people who compose and deliver their own sermons. This organization, highly developed in the United States, is just beginning to take hold here. Because Mr. Gross's faith lies in the next generation here in Canada, he is intensely interested in all their activities and aids and encourage them whenever he can. Mr. Gross lives at 143 Madison Avenue.

He was married in Antwerp and has a son, Mark, who is eight, and a daughter, Suzanne Dorothy, who is about three. Mark looks like his father. He is a tall, spiritual-looking child with an air of nobility about him not often seen in a lusty youngster in this democratic country. His sister has great, wide dark eyes and curls that fall about her shoulders. He wants her called Dorothy because one of his dearest friends is Suzann Cohen, of Montreal, and he thinks she should be the only one in his affections by that name. The mother of these children is a companion to them and beautifies their home with strictly traditional Jewish observances. The children have been to Europe and hear French, Dutch, German and English spoken in the home which surrounds them with so much tender love. If you ever meet Mr. Gross on the street and find him looking as though the world had come to an end it is because one of his family has a slight illness. His attentive interest in his children and the time he reserves for them are remarkable in the present-day parent. He speaks often of the fine Jewish consciousness he wishes them to possess.

JEWISH BOARD MAY ACT IN ADVISORY CAPACITY TO SCHOOL COMMISSION

Although ratification of the agreement between Protestant and Jewish school groups by legislation settling the financial details will end the active functions of the Jewish School Board, it is likely that it will continue to exist as an advisory and consultative body, in the opinion of J. A. Mathewson, chairman of the Protestant School Board.

"The future status of the Jewish School Board is somewhat a matter for legislation," Mr. Mathewson said, "but the control under the new arrangement, is entirely with the Protestant board. However, as one of the parties to the agreement, I imagine the Jewish board will be kept in existence, as an advisory body, to see that the spirit and letter of the agreement are carried out by the present and future boards."

The financial details were agreed upon unanimously, Mr. Mathewson said, though he declined to reveal the particulars until they have been placed before Premier Taschereau. The cost of educating the 11,000 Jewish pupils is approximately $850,000, he stated, of which about $515,000 is contributed by Jewish taxpayers. Of the deficit of $315,000, part will be made up out of the neutral panel, and the remainder borne jointly by the Catholic and Protestant sections.

"I think it would be rather indiscreet to reveal the terms of the agreement yet," Mr. Mathewson said. "I can say that it has the full support of the Catholic School Board, and was accepted unanimously by the Protestants and Jews. I am sure the Legislature will pass it unanimously.

"There could be no sincere opposition to it. No one would oppose it unless he were trying to gain political advantage by inflaming racial and religious prejudices. Our agreement to the principle of engaging Jewish and Protestant indiscriminately is not new. We endorsed that principle in 1913 and we have 64 Jewish teachers in our system now. Jewish children make up one-third of our pupils, about 11,000 in the total of 30,000."

The matter is expected to come up in the Legislature within a few days, Mr. Mathewson said.

"I think it is safe to say that the matter is settled," he concluded, with an air of satisfaction.

The text of the agreement follows: The text is as follows:

"1. Within the school municipality now or hereafter under the jurisdiction of the Protestant Board, the Jewish Commission agrees that all Jewish children shall attend the schools of the Protestant Board and the Protestant Board hereby agrees to receive the said children into its said schools.

"2. All Jewish children shall be subject in all respects to all the rules and regulations of the Protestant Board applying to Protestant children and shall receive the same treatment and be subject to the same obligations and enjoy the same advantages in all respects as Protestant children

"3. Jewish children shall attend the school of the regular school district (as defined from time to time by the Protestant Board) within which they reside and within the schools so attended by them there shall be no division or separation of Jewish children from Protestant or other children.

"4. No Jewish pupil shall be compelled to read or study any religious or devotional book or to take part in any religious or devotional exercise to which the father or in his absence the person in loco parentis shall object.

United Talmud Torahs Campaign for $100,000 Opens December 14

A campaign for $100,000 will be carried on by the United Talmud Torahs for funds to complete the new Hebrew Education Institute at St. Joseph Boulevard and Jeanne Mance Street. Opening dinner December 14. Samuel Hart is honorary chairman.

Referring to the need for an educational centre in the city, Mr. Hart said that 40 per cent. of the Juvenile Court cases during February, March and April of this year were Jewish. "These court statistics bear daily witness to the sad state into which youth, deprived of the moral influence or religious teaching, is apt to fall when confronted with the temptations of larger cities," he remarked in a review of the many dangers lurking in the corners of the streets.

Until construction was commenced on the Hebrew Educational Institute, the Talmud Torahs were able to accommodate only 1,200 children in the eight schools that were located mainly in the districts unable to provide their own schools. Even these are remodelled houses or flats. The new structure is a three-storey building measuring 117 feet on St. Joseph boulevard and 88 feet on Jeanne Mance street. The ground floor contains a combined auditorium, chapel and playroom; a small assembly hall, janitor's apartment and furnace room. The larger auditorium can seat about 870 persons. It has a concert platform at one end and a platform for religious services at the other end. The small assembly hall will seat 165 persons and will be used extensively by the ladies' auxiliary and other groups associated with the institute.

The first floor will contain the principal's office, business offices, board room, six classrooms, kindergarten and two teachers' rooms. The second floor will contain eight classrooms and a library. A bus service will bring the beginners to and from school, covering a larger area in the north and central part of the community.

HOW TO CROCHET

Start to learn crochet with needle and crochet cotton in hand as though you were attending a class. Do not attempt to learn merely by reading. It is confusing. Start at the beginning of the lesson and work it out, having each point clear before you go on to the next.

There are two ways to hold a needle, either loosely inside the closed hand, or as a pencil is held. Either is correct. Take the needle in your right hand and hold it as seems natural.

Thread is held in the left hand. It is wound over the forefinger and carried down inside the hand. The thread on the forefinger comes from the work. Hold the forefinger a little high, but not too high, because the length of thread between work and forefinger regulates the tension. The work is held by the thumb and middle finger of the left hand, just below stitch on needle.

Tension is important. If the stitch is to be loose wind cotton over the forefinger once, if tight, wind it two or three times, as necessary.

CHAIN STITCH: All work starts with one or more chain stitches. Make a slip loop on needle with beginning end of cotton, and with the hook draw the thread through this loop. This is the 1st chain stitch. Draw the thread through loop on needle as many times as there are chain stitches required.

SINGLE CROCHET: Turn at end of chain and work back along chain, turning rough side of chain toward you. Skip chain next to needle, insert hook in next chain so that 2 threads of chain are above needle, 1 thread below. With hook draw working thread through chain, giving 2 loops on needle. Again catch up working thread with hook and draw it through both loops. This is 1st single crochet. Make all others like it. At the end of chain, if you wish another row of single crochet, turn, chain 1, and pass needle through below the 2 threads—or loops as they are called—which form the top of single crochet of preceding row. Draw thread through as in 1st row, giving 2 loops on needle. Finish as usual.

DOUBLE CROCHET: This is made much like single crochet, but before inserting the hook in preceding row or chain, wind the working cotton over the needle. Then insert hook in preceding row and draw loop through, giving 3 loops on needle. Pick up thread and draw it through all 3 loops at once. To start a row of double crochet make 2 chains.

TREBLE CROCHET: Have 3 loops on needle exactly as for double crochet. With hook pick up working cotton and draw it through 2 loops, leaving 2 loops on needle. Pick up working cotton and draw it through these 2 loops, completing stitch. To start a row of treble crochet make 3 chain stitches.

The above 4 stitches are the most important in crochet, and with a mastery of them it is possible to do any piece of crochet work. For while many other crochet stitches are used these simple stitches form the foundation.

Speaking for Young Israel, Miss Rebecca Perlman opened the discussion, declaring that it was a strong religious feeling innate in every Jewish heart which had kept the Jews together, despite their having been for so long a homeless and persecupeople. Any breaking away from the teachings of their forefathers was to be deplored as tending to make them lose their racial consciousness and pride in their faith. Other peoples, who were gathered together more or less in one place, were not so subject to this danger. It was very necessary that the Jews should maintain their orthodox religious customs in their entirety.

Eli Berger, of Young Judaea, made a strong plea for Zionism, claiming that in furthering the cause of a national home for their people, which would be a fountain head of Jewish culture, literature and thought, and to which the sons and daughter of Israel all over the world could turn for inspiration, those Jews, who perhaps found it impossible completely to accept the orthodox religious beliefs of their forefathers would find an outlet for their pride of race, and their desire to identify themselves as Jews in the eyes of their neighbors of other races and religions.

Mrs. M. Livchitz, speaking for the Y.W.H.A., felt that by active participation in welfare work, which she expressed as service for their fellow-men, many people would find the secret to the problem of making to best contribution to the life of the community and not losing their Jewish identity as Jews.

Miss Rebecca Wiser sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Fay Polson.

"WHEN TURN COMES CANADA IN THE LEAD"

BANK OF MONTREAL MEETING

The annual general meeting of the Bank of Montreal was marked by a distinct feeling of confidence in the general outlook in Canada.

Sir Charles Gordon, the President, in reviewing the principal developments of the year, said in part:

"I am sure it will be very gratifying to the shareholders to learn that we have not suffered any losses from depreciation in the securities which the Bank holds as part of its assets. From this you will understand that great care has been exercised in our investments.

"The year under review has been a most difficult one not only for banks but for practically all classes of business, and this has been reflected in our profits, but nevertheless ample provision has been made for all losses and prospective losses.

"Examination of the figures of the foreign trade of Canada shows how large a part the item of wheat plays. No other single commodity approaches this period in volume and value; as a consequence, when crop failure occurs or prices fall below the line of profitable production, the whole business of the country is adversely affected. That has happened. The short crop of 1929 was shut in by the crop of 1930 [illegible] low prices and a glutted market, and the foreign trade returns disclose the effects of these unfavorable factors. To what proportion and [illegible] may be traced much of the recession in general business, the decline in railway traffic, the diminished earnings of carriers by land and water, unemployment of labor and [illegible] diminished purchasing power of the agricultural classes [illegible]

"In continuing up his examination, Sir Charles pointed out that in this virile country of Canada with its [illegible] resources there can be no permanent depression. My own view is that what has been termed Canada's [illegible] is largely reflecting the [illegible] in prosperity."

General Managers' Address

The address of W. A. Bog and [illegible] General Managers dealt more particularly with the report of the Bank for the past [illegible] year. The report said in part:

"In times like the present it is inevitable that losses suffered through the years [illegible] prices most affect Banks as most [illegible]. It is a satisfaction to be able to assure you that we have made ample provision for all losses and [illegible] debts.

"You will note that the traditional strong liquid position of your Bank has been maintained. This was accomplished without curtailing the [illegible] requirements of our customers.

"A notable increase during the year in the number of small accounts is specially gratifying as we have consistently emphasized the fact that the Bank of Montreal welcomes small accounts.

"In referring to the situation in Canada the report said:

"The return of prosperity will [illegible] to slow but there are grounds for believing that the bottom of the depression is near at hand."

Do the Jewish merchants realize how difficult it is for Jews to secure positions these days in Christian concerns? It is a known fact that when Jewish help apply for positions, although they are quite qualified for same, and are very satisfactory as far as their work is concerned, just as soon as it is known they are Jew or Jewess, that settles the matter, the reply is usually, "I will let you know."

It is most surprising to see how eager our Jewish people are to engage Christian help, and yet the Jews are known to be a very clever race. No room for a Jew among Christians, no room for a Jew among Jews. So what about our bookkeepers stenographers, salespeople, etc.? What will be the outcome for them? I hope this will arouse the interest of all our Jewish concerns, to try and help our unemployed this winter.

I would like some comments on this subject and would suggest that the Canadian Jewish Review have a "Situations Wanted" and "Situations Vacant", column in their magazine.

An Open Letter

We, the Jewish People in Canada, own an Agricultural Farm School, at Georgetown, Ont. The school started to function in 1924 with the assistance of Rabbi Brickner, it has for its aim and object the promoting of agriculture amongst the Jewish people of Canada, also, the bringing over of Jewish immigrants from Europe, teaching them agriculture and later helping to colonize as many as possible.

For the last five years it has been a hard struggle, we have not received the co-operation of our people, those that stood by the work can witness today the good it has done. We were able to settle a few on farms of their own, and have obtained farm employment for a good many of the orphans brought over.

The Immigration and Colonization Department have recognized the work of the Farm School as the first Jewish undertaking in agricultural development, and they look to us to continue the work already begun, but, there is something wrong with us, we seem to contribute large sums of money to all needs, but badly neglect to develop our own country we are living in. We are now at a crisis, the mortgage has become due and there are no funds to pay it, and unless immediate financial help is forthcoming, we will lose our Farm School with an investment of over $25,000 and buildings. It will certainly mean a disgrace to us Jews in Canada, (who are living in the largest Agricultural Country in the World) to lose the School, and our leaders will be responsible for the loss of the Institution. We are now asking them to take over the Farm School and run it for the benefit of our people and of Canada.

We can not afford to let the Farm School die, even the Gentiles, who are far more advanced in Agriculture in Canada, have a Farm School, and if you read Saturday's Globe, December 6th, you will see where they are advocating agricultural training Schools throughout the Country. The demand upon us in this country to give our percentage to agriculture must be heard, we can not remain silent and let them point out, "We are only a nation of traders."

We have been told time and time again we must become tillers of the soil, and it is high time that our prominent Jews, who give thousands and thousands of dollars to help other countries should stop and think about our own country. Producers are what we want, the foundation is already laid, and it is to our satisfaction to show to-day, that we can give just as much to agriculture as any other nationality in Canada. The Farm School has been looked upon by wealthy Jews as not a necessity. Here is where the mistake is made. There is no work as important for us to do, as helping to promote agriculture amongst our people. Will we ever wake up to this fact? If we remain asleep we will never forgive ourselves, nor will those we should bring out from Europe. We must remember that political pull of bringing in immigrants is ended, and the only open door for immigrants to enter is through agricultural channels, and we here in Canada must meet our people and help them to become good, strong, healthy farmers in Canada. Why neglect this opportunity? Our beginning does not require millions, but, it requires a substantial sum to settle at least a few Jewish Farmers each year, and this can be easily done if assistance is forthcoming.

The deed of the Farm School is made out to the Jewish People of Canada, the Charter was given to the Jewish People of Canada. Can any Jew afford to lose them?

We are asking the Jewish People of Canada to reply to this letter and to suggest what should be done. Any suggestions will be gratefully received and considered. What we want is our people in Canada to elect their Officers to run the School for the benefit of promoting agriculture amongst the Jews in Canada as well as the immigrants.

We are again urging you to not delay or neglect this appeal as we can not hold the morgagee off much longer.

Yours very truly,
The Canadian Jewish Farm School
M. Saxe.

PALESTINE COUNCIL POSTPONES ELECTION

The Palestine Jewish Council December 8, decided to postpone the elections to the Palestine Jewish-elected assembly for three weeks.

The Revisionists express complete satisfaction over the postponement since it will enable them to conduct a more intensive electoral campaign. They assert the National Council postponed the elections in order to give Jewish Agency leaders in London more time in which to complete negotiations with the British Government and also to enable the Palestine Jewry to forget the Whitechapel election tactics of Palestine Jewish Labor leaders, who are now in London and who form a majority in the present Palestine Jewish National Council.

The general opinion is that the Revisionists will obtain sixteen seats, which together with the twenty seats of the Spanish Jews, who have decided to support the Revisionists, will give them 36 seats out of 71 in the Jewish-elected assembly. The Jewish Labor party of Palestine has asked that the elections be deferred until after the February Zionist congress, probably fearing that the Revisionists will sweep the polls.

The national president of the Palestine Zionist Revisionist party said tonight:

"Revisionists and Spanish Jews are going to the polls with almost identical programmes and are certain of a majority. We feel the Jewish Labor party's recent tactics regarding the Whitechapel by-elections have changed Jewish opinion after more than five years of political propaganda by Revisionist leaders.

"Palestine Jewry understands at last that small colonization by a handful of families yearly and immigration of a few thousand families each year is devoid of any political or even economic importance. Until now the Jewish masses believed Jewish sacrifices of money and human efforts would induce Britain to enlarge the possibilities of Jewish immigration.

"The people therefore did not believe in the Revisionist warning that small colonization could only endanger Jewish national rights for mass colonization and mass immigration. They now recognize that they have lost all.

"Revisionists and Spanish Jews, as a future majority on the Jewish National Council, have decided therefore to take direct action at Geneva and Washington, and in Paris and other European capitals in order to mobilize Gentile public opinion throughout the world against England's breach of its solemn obligations. We do not recognize any negotiations by Dr. Chaim Weizmann and Zionist leaders in London who are no longer authorized to act in the name of world Jewry and the Jews of Palestine as long as the White Paper remains. We shall have nothing to do with the London Government which endorsed it."

Women Organize For Talmud Torah Completion Campaign

Three years ago a committee was formed to raise a fund of $250,000 for the erection of a Talmud Torah Centre in the heart of the most thickly populated district of the Montreal Jewish community. The campaign for public subscriptions was based upon a pledge given by the late Sir Mortimer Davis to the extent of $50,000. The untimely death of Sir Mortimer came leaving the campaign without a written verification of his verbal statement. This precluded the collection of the $50,000 from his estate. A Building Plan Committee was formed, composed of H. M. Levinoff (Chairman), Jacob Albert, Lyon Cohen, Felix Leopold, B. Levitt, H. Nathanson, A. H. Rabin, A. Raginsky, George Salomon, Louis Salomon, H. Sessenwein, Elijah Silverstone, H. Vechsler, (Secretary), B. M. Weiner and H. Wolofsky. A ground-breaking ceremony took place in May and the general contract awarded to J. Gillerz and Sons: the plumbing contract to J. Becker, and the electrical work to Sterling Electric Co. In November, the exterior work on the building having been completed, and the highest point reached, a flag-raising ceremony was held with the honor of raising the Zionist and British Flag being given to Harry Bronfman, of Bronfman Interests.

$100,000 has been raised and expended, but another $100,000 is required to pay for the completion of the building which will soon be ready for occupancy and to wipe off the $15,000 deficit which has accumulated during the past twelve years. Lyon Cohen is Honorary Chairman for the $100,000 Completion Campaign. Samuel Hart and Horace R. Cohen are Joint Campaign Chairmen, with Mr. Cohen spending several hours daily at the Campaign Headquarters. Ald. Max Seigler, Campaign Vice-Chairman, is also directing the organization plans for the Campaign. Sponsoring the campaign are Lyon Cohen and Elijah Silverstone, Harry Bronfman, S. Levinson, and H. Wolofsky, Honorary Vice-Chairmen; Samuel Hart and Horace R. Cohen, Joint Campaign Chairmen; Alderman Max Seigler, Vice-Chairman; George Salomon and H. Sessenwein, Joint Treasurers; Harry Vechsler, Secretary. Hundreds of Jewish mothers will assist in campaigning the community on behalf of the Hebrew Educational Institute. This has been accomplished by the executive of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the United Talmud Torahs, Mrs. A. S. Radovsky (President); Mesdames C. B. Fainer, H. H. Livingstone, L. W. Jacobs and B. A VISIT TO THE STUDIO OF AN ARTIST

It has been our good fortune recently to pay a visit to the studio of J. Charlebois, formerly of New York and Paris, and now located at 1178 Phillips Place, in this city. This artist specializes in presentation addresses, memorials, testimonials, congratulatory resolutions and heraldry illuminated on vellum or parchment in raised gold and colors, framed or in book form.

Book plate suggestions and designs for book plates or exlibris are made for personal libraries and public collections. Those interested in synagogues will find these beautifully illuminated scrolls a splendid means of expressing votes of thanks on resignations or with presentations, or as a means of greeting anniversaries or other events. These presentation scrolls are illuminated in gold and colors or engrossed in black and white beautifully framed or arranged in book form.

Mr Charlebois has been very successful in devising a gift highly suitable for a young married couple. He has planned an illuminated parchment in book form, in which greetings from the well wishers and their autographs, are enscribed in a manner to make the book long treasured by the recipients.

Mr. Charlebois, in his forty years of practise, has illuminated addresses presented to H. M. Queen Victoria, H. M. King Edward VII, H. M. King George V and H. R. H. Prince of Wales.

We have seen in his studio specimens of Mediaeval and Renaissance illuminations which are truly beautiful in brightness of burnished raised gold and richness of color.

CONCRETE Construction

A stylish attractive, fire-safe Stucco Home.

..keeps money in Canada, gives jobs to Canadians

Every home or commercial building built with concrete is a distinct step towards renewed prosperity in Canada. For concrete construction is all-Canadian. It means the use of Canadian aggregate, Canadian reinforcing bars and lumber for forms, as well as "Canada" cement. It means Canadian labor on the job and in the making or handling of each concrete component. Concrete besides helping the unemployment situation, assures always a permanent, fire-safe and economical construction job.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES IN MONTREAL

The building contractors of Montreal, with their plan for twelve months a year construction work, are doing their share towards solving the city-wide unemployment question. In every section of our city, splendid modern structures are growing apace. It is worthy of note that the Jewish contractor, who has, through his energy and intelligent forethought so successfully pioneered Notre Dame de Grace, where rows of comfortable duplexes and cottages stand as a lasting monument to his good building sense, and beautified the choice apartment sections on Sherbrooke Street in Westmount and in Notre Dame de Grace with fine apartment blocks, has this season developed two new districts Decarie Blvd. in the vicinity of Terrebonne Avenue, and Queen Mary Road is no longer a barren stretch of muddy road, but gives promise of becoming one of the most desirable apartment sites. As many as six of our leading Jewish contractors are concentrating on this district, with results that are highly creditable.

Another section which is being built up in such a manner as to link the north and west parts of the city more closely, is the Maplewood Avenue stretch where the finest and newest in building achievement is vieing with the natural beauty of the site.

The outstanding apartment building is The Trafalgar which is being erected by Joseph Gersovitz on Cote des Neiges Road and which will be ready for May 1 occupation. It is supreme, not only in architectural plan and detail, but because it commands one of the finest views. It is but a few yards from the park slopes leading to Mount Royal, which is a place of beauty, winter and summer alike. Looking below, one enjoys the finest views of the city proper—with vistas of the lovely St. Lawrence and the mountain ranges beyond. Making the location particularly desirable is the fact that with all these natural advantages, The Trafalgar is within but a few minutes walking distance of the St. Catherine Street shopping and theatre district.

It is surrounded on all sides by strictly residential areas and two lines of street cars give it continuous and rapid access to the retail shopping district and the downtown financial section. Ample garage space, with direct elevator service, will be provided in the basement. Thus residents in the Trafalgar will enjoy almost uniquely threefold advantages: mountain air and prospect, commodious and most modern apartments, and the convenience of living virtually in the heart of a metropolis. To make the very utmost of the unimpeded light, air and view of this location, the architect has planned the building with adroit daring.

The building is divided into three wings. The courtyard which separates two of them is 45 feet wide. St. Catherine Street at Peel from curb to curb is 89 feet. Each wing is a separate section, reached by its own entrances and served by its own freight and passenger elevator system. This arrangement eliminates through corridors and enables the larger apartments to run right across the wings, giving light on two and in many cases on three sides.

The duplexes on the upper floors are particularly attractive. They are virtually self contained residences of two storeys, high above the ground, in an apartment block. All have light, air and view on three sides, while those in the tower have windows on four sides.

The finish and appointments of all will be of the finest quality and each will be decorated to suit the tenant. All have open fireplaces. Each kitchen door is adjacent to a service stairway, at which there is a garbage chute to the basement. All tradesmen will enter by the garage floor from which there will be telephone communication to each kitchen. All deliveries will be by freight elevator to the kitchen door. The whole building is of strictly fireproof construction and every precaution is being taken to make it soundproof. In fact, Trafalgar Apartments will provide for its residents a perfect location with every facility for the full enjoyment of the modern art of living graciously and spaciously.

In designing the building, care was given to size and number of clothes closets, a generous supply of bathrooms, spacious storage units, a children's playground and sun rooms.

The Trafalgar will cost one million dollars. The Westmount Realties Company are the rental agents.

The Trafalgar commemorates the fact that in the early days of Montreal the whole property on the surrounding slope was known as the Trafalgar property. The exact origin of the name is not definitely known, but it dates so far back that it is thought to have been given by contemporaries in memory of Nelson's famous victory over the combined Spanish and French fleets in 1805.

On the death of Donald Ross, the whole estate passed to the well-known girls' school — Trafalgar Institute. The plan was to erect the school on Cote des Neiges site, but this was found impracticable and the land was later sold.

The property has a frontage of 192' 3" on Cote des Neiges Road and 141' 6" on Westmount Boulevard, with a total area of 30,101 square feet. It was sold by W.K.G. Lyman and H. G. Marpole to Joseph Gersovitz through the agency of the Westmount Realties Company at a price in the neighborhood of $3.25 per square foot.

MODERN SERVICE STATIONS NEED COMPLETE EQUIPMENT

Modern service stations must have special machinery and scientific apparatus manned by trained operators to meet the demand of present-day motoring, according to Mr. Crompton of the Acme Garage Limited, local official service representative for Bendix products 1113 City Hall Avenue.

"Take brake testing for instance. Old time road test methods are not satisfactory for modern traffic conditions. Today scientific brake testing is necessary—such as is possible with a Cowdrey Brake Tester. It shows RIGHT TO THE FOOT, the distance in which a car can be stopped."

"And for brake servicing too modern machinery is necessary. That is why the Bendix Brake Company makes in its own plants the necessary equipment for brake service work. Brake drum lathes, turning machines, and other equipment is supplied to authorized brake service stations so that service work may be done properly."

"In every official service station for Bendix products is complete machinery for service work, operated by men trained in the latest service methods."

During the past year sums were contributed by the Club to the Montreal Hebrew Orphans' Home; Montefiore Orphans' Home, Laurentian Fresh Air Camp, Bnai Brith Camp, Neighborhood House, and the Mount Sinai Sanitorium.

David B. Fredette, of the New Method Washing Limited, past president of the Montreal Laundry Owners Club, has been in the laundry business for 23 years. Born in the Province of Quebec, he has during the last 12 years done much to improve the laundry industry in Montreal.

The Chait Construction Company has undertaken quite an extensive building programme. A fine four storey brick and stone apartment house is very near completion on Decarie Blvd. just south of Cote St. Antoine Road. Bigonesse and Bigonesse were the architects. A three storey solid brick edifice of 12 apartments is being built on Victoria Avenue and a 4 storey solid brick apartment house of 16 apartments with garage accommodation will go up on Decarie Blvd. at a cost of $80,000.

J. Gilletz and Co. started work on November 21, 1930 on another fine building in the choice Cote des Neiges section, where at Cote des Neiges Road and Piedmont Avenue they are erecting a four storey solid brick apartment house of 18 apartments of four and five rooms each. C. D. Goodman is the architect. The building will be ready for May 13, 1931.

Laing Construction Company, has recently finished for October 1930 occupation a fine four storey building of 32 apartments of three, four and five rooms each at Decarie and Terrebonne at a cost of $150,000. The structure makes building history as it took only two and one half months from the first bit of excavation to the final decorative touch. W. S. Wright, the architect, has also made plans for another four storey solid concrete brick building now under construction which Mr. Laing promises for January 1931 occupancy. This building of 32 apartments of 3, 4 and 5 rooms will cost $170,000 and is situated at the corner of Cote St. Luc and Decarie. This section of the city is fast becoming an apartment centre. An interesting feature is the opening up of Cote St. Luc Road to meet Westmount Blvd. 250 men and 40 teams started work late in September 1930 on this job, so that completion is expected by May 1931. Laing Construction Company is made up of S. Laing, President, Nathan Laing, Junior, Secretary, Joseph Laing, Vice President.

The Lancashire Land and Construction Company with B. Shapiro, as president, has just started two very fine apartment blocks, which will be ready for January 1931 occupancy. A 4-storey structure of 32 four and five room apartments will be erected on Queen Mary Road, corner Earnscliffe, at a cost of $175,000. A second building of three storeys will be built at a cost of $155,000 at Queen Mary Road and Clanranald Avenue, containing 28 apartments, of three and four rooms. Both buildings will be of solid brick and concrete with every modern device such as electrical refrigeration, good stoves, etc. The buildings will be of oak finish with fine lobbies and a reception hall of particularly good size which will be harmoniously furnished. The kitchens of each apartment will have Corkotile floors. A noteworthy feature will be the private garage with space for cars in each building. Petrault and Gadbois are the architects. Still another apartment block will be put up by the same group early in the spring of 1931. B. Shapiro, is President, and Joseph Laing is secretary of the Lancashire Land and Construction Co.

plan, as Vice President) has been actively engaged upon a large apartment building on Maplewood Avenue as well as upon several remodelling jobs. Roger Beaudry, the architect, did the plans for the 12 suite apartment block at 288 Maplewood which was finished at a cost of $75,000 by October 1930. It will be remembered that this property adjoins a similar structure which the same company finished earlier in the year.

A seven thousand dollar remodelling job for F. Veitch on Mansfield Street, calling for stores on the ground floor, with suites of four and five rooms on the upper storeys, was finished in October; and extensive alterations, converting a house into a group of apartments were completed last month at a cost of $8,000 on Dr. S. Eidlow's building at St. Joseph Blvd. and Villeneuve Avenue. The Kaplan Construction Company were also in charge of alterations for Lazare's Fur Store on Peel Street, and are executing an intricate piece of reconstruction for St. Paul's Lodge on McKay Street, where the basement and one storey are being refinished at a cost of $25,000. This job is promised for December completion.

The Montrealer can now point with pride to many new features that have made the sky line of this city so much more interesting. The huge electric signs that so plainly illumine the night sky are of course all important. A newer item is the huge white milk bottle which forms the tower of the new dairy built for the Universal Dairy Milk Co. on Aqueduct Street by the Kaplan Construction Company. This clever trade mark is the work of the Dominion Bridge Company.

Sathenson and Kahan are engaged upon a $60,000 three storey solid brick apartment house of 12 suites, which is going up on Maplewood Avenue corner Wimbleberry Street.

J. Kushner who completed a highly efficient garage some time ago on Sherbrooke Street near Claremont Avenue, is planning a modern two storey garage with a 150 car capacity. The work will commence early this spring, in the vicinity of eastern Notre Dame de Grace, with [illegible] H. Goodman as architect.

P. Segal has started work on an apartment house in that new centre for the apartment dweller De Castle Avenue, just beyond Terrebonne. This building will be ready for spring occupation. P. Segal recently finished for October 1930 occupation two heated duplexes of face brick and stone trimming on Wiseman Avenue between Joyce and Lajoie, of eight rooms each. The flats have parallel walls, with decorations in varied colors. The flooring is of oak in the main rooms and of brick in the others. A splendid feature is that each room is decidedly separate from all the other rooms, so that from the square entrance hall only the living room and dining room can be seen. Heated garages adjoin these duplexes.

Musselman and Gertsman recently finished a fine apartment building on Maplewood Avenue near the University of Montreal, and are now engaged upon an equally interesting structure which will occupy 50 x 100 ft. on Maplewood Avenue near Cherry Street. The three storey solid brick building will contain 12 suites and will cost $100,000.

The Maron Construction Co. (with I. Maron, President, A. Maron, Secretary Treasurer, and D. Sabarino, Vice-President) is fast completing 32 apartments of four and five rooms on Decarie Blvd. and Ponsard Avenue, which will be ready for spring 1931. The apartments are fireproof of solid brick with garage accommodation. Corkutile Linoleum will be on all the kitchen floors. The flooring throughout is of No. 1 Oak Flooring with mahogany and Chestnut trim. Another building will be commenced in the spring by Maron and Sabarino, 4800 Decarie Blvd.

P. Kauffman has almost finished a four storey brick veneer apartment building on Decarie Blvd. just beyond Cote St. Antoine Road at a cost of $45,000.

Toilet Laundries are erecting quite an addition to the plant at 580 Guy Street.

Martin's Bakery, 817 Brewster Street, is being enlarged by a twenty-five thousand dollar alteration programme.

Harris Simon, owner of the Orange Bloom factory, is engaged on a new one storey building which will be erected at a cost of $80,000 at Des Ecores and Bellechasse Streets. S. Brandes and Co. 4330 Laval Avenue; are in charge of the contract. M. Doucet is the architect.

D. Wolfe, 3788 Notre Dame de Grace Avenue, will build several duplexes this spring on Victoria Avenue.

D. Greenberg is erecting a four storey apartment house on Queen Mary Road, near Decarie Blvd. at a cost of $95,000.

A. Triberg is erecting three storey brick veneer flats at Wiseman and Hall Streets in Outremont, at a cost of $12,000.

S. Tansky and I. Michael are planning a four storey solid brick apartment of 12 suites at a cost of $90,000 on Queen Mary Road and Victoria Avenue. These apartments will be ready in January 1931 and will contain garage space. As soon as this block is completed a duplicate building of 16 suites will be commenced.

The Montreal Upholstery Company with Ben Friedman as President, now operating at 4521 Clarke Street, will erect a new three storey factory building to occupy 70,000 square feet on Bates Road in Outremont. Hutchison and Wood are architects.

William Malo, 937 Addington Avenue, is planning four two storey brick veneer flats to cost $12,000 on Hampton Avenue, between Sherbrooke Street and C.P.R. tracks.

S. Lazar and B. Lernoff are building a three storey solid brick apartment house on Maplewood Avenue between Orange and Pine Streets at a cost of $75,000. There will be 13 suites of four and five rooms each—all of them highly modern. The exterior is of Spanish style with lobbies of modern treatment, Krafter will be used as a decorative medium.

DID YOU EVER?

Did you ever see the attendant in the wash rooms of a large factory or office building use Zef, the deodorizing agent described?

Did you notice how necessary it is for keeping buildings absolutely clean and free of the odors a good purifier?

Also did you ever notice the habit of having to wash your hands with a plentiful of soap and even the option of either drying them on a public towel or shaking your hands vigorously?

If you have been fortunate enough to have had these experiences you undoubtedly realized that SANITATION is a very important factor that cannot be overlooked.

The general Canadian Pacific Superintendent Engineer of Bridges Department, a Railroad Hotel, Royal York Hotel, Canadian National Railways Hotels and hundreds of offices and factories realize the health of their employees as well as their own reputations as modernistic and efficiently using Zef in Air Purifying Floor Liquid Toilet Soaps and Disinfectants, also in their public wash rooms and lavatories.

Zef in these factories does duties efficiently and pleasingly, not to be overcome by the odor with another for the purpose of merely hiding the air by breaking up the carbon dioxide (foul gases) into fine oxygen. Thus conserving health.

One Zef in Bbl will make ordinary conditions quite. One pail in a room 1,500 cubic feet. Large rooms of course requires greater number of pails and Libbys.

It is also a proven fact that the continual use of soap has been the means of spreading many infections and contagious diseases. When Lif with Liquid Soap Dispensing Systems are used this health hazard is naturally eliminated and at the same time your wash basins are kept clean and tidy. Lif with Liquid Soap actually saves you money as compared to the cost of unsanitary

MAIN OFFICE AND WORKS OF THE JOHN INGLIS CO., TORONTO

Over seventy-five years ago the first Inglis Boiler was turned out in their little factory in Guelph. Three quarters of a century spent in the building of boilers, tanks, in fact all classes of steel plate work and special machinery, has developed an enviable reputation for all Inglis products. Today the Inglis plant in Toronto, one of the most up-to-date of its kind, with the largest machine shop in Canada is prepared to undertake, at a moment's notice, practically any type of steel plate work, in either standard or special jobs. A recent and rather out-of-the-ordinary undertaking was the building of an Alligator tug-boat for the International Power Company for use in the Northern Temiskaming district. It was completely assembled in the Inglis shops and required a special car to transport it to the North Country.
The John Inglis Company now has offices in Toronto and Montreal, with special representatives in Hamilton and Winnipeg.

The above picture shows a view of the beautiful apartment block situated at 4501-4503 Decarie Boulevard, at the corner of Terrebonee. The situation is in an exclusively residential district near the bus line and convenient to car service. These apartments are equipped with every modern convenience. Kitchens have Frigidaire and Kitchenmaid cabinets and include an attractive dining alcove. All principal rooms are finished with attractive panelling. Apartments are of 2-3-4 and five rooms. Miss Minnie Kallmeyer

Miss Minnie Kallmeyer, of the Ontario Society of Artists, although born in Detroit, has spent practically all her life in Toronto.

Drawing and painting always held for her a great attraction. Even as a very young girl in High School while attending the Jarvis Collegiate she would frequently skip her lectures for the art class, much to the chagrin of her family. She recalls the first bit of painting she brought home from school, two bananas and an apple. Although her parents scolded her for neglecting her other studies she noticed, nevertheless, the pride they took in showing the work to friends.

This landscape painter, whose work may be found in many private collections and permanent art galleries in this country and abroad, began her art education at the Ontario College of Art and continued with F. M. McGillivray Knowles, R.C.A., and J. W. Beatty, R.C.A. She also studied abroad in Munich and Paris with sketching tours in England, and spent several seasons at the New York Art Students' League Summer School.

Miss Kallmeyer recently returned from a sketching trip to Nova Scotia. There she did paintings of the ocean which sparkle with life, vigour and freshness. Her interest at present is centered in marine paintings.

"European and American Jews," Miss Kallmeyer says, "are far greater patrons of art than are the Canadian Jews. Judging from paintings seen in Jewish homes, particularly in Toronto, it is obvious that there is a lack of appreciation of real art here among Jews. In five years most of the pictures in their homes will be relegated to the attic as strange incongruities."

Several of Miss Kallmeyer's pictures were exhibited at the Grange Art Gallery in November and two were shown this year at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Miss Kallmeyer is a member of the Arts and Letters Club. Whenever she can she plays la crosse.

This artist may have inherited her creative ability from her mother who was a French Jew. Her mother loved to create new patterns in making lace. She seldom, if ever, copied the conventional patterns of others but always worked out her own. With a small bit of cloth she would fashion distinctive dresses for her daughters. Or she would make over an older child's dress for a younger one and the neighbors would wonder how she managed such a variety of pretty clothing for her children. Miss Kallmeyer says her mother would derive no joy out of sewing from a large piece of cloth and it was in the twisting and turning of an inadequate piece that she would satisfy her creative urge.

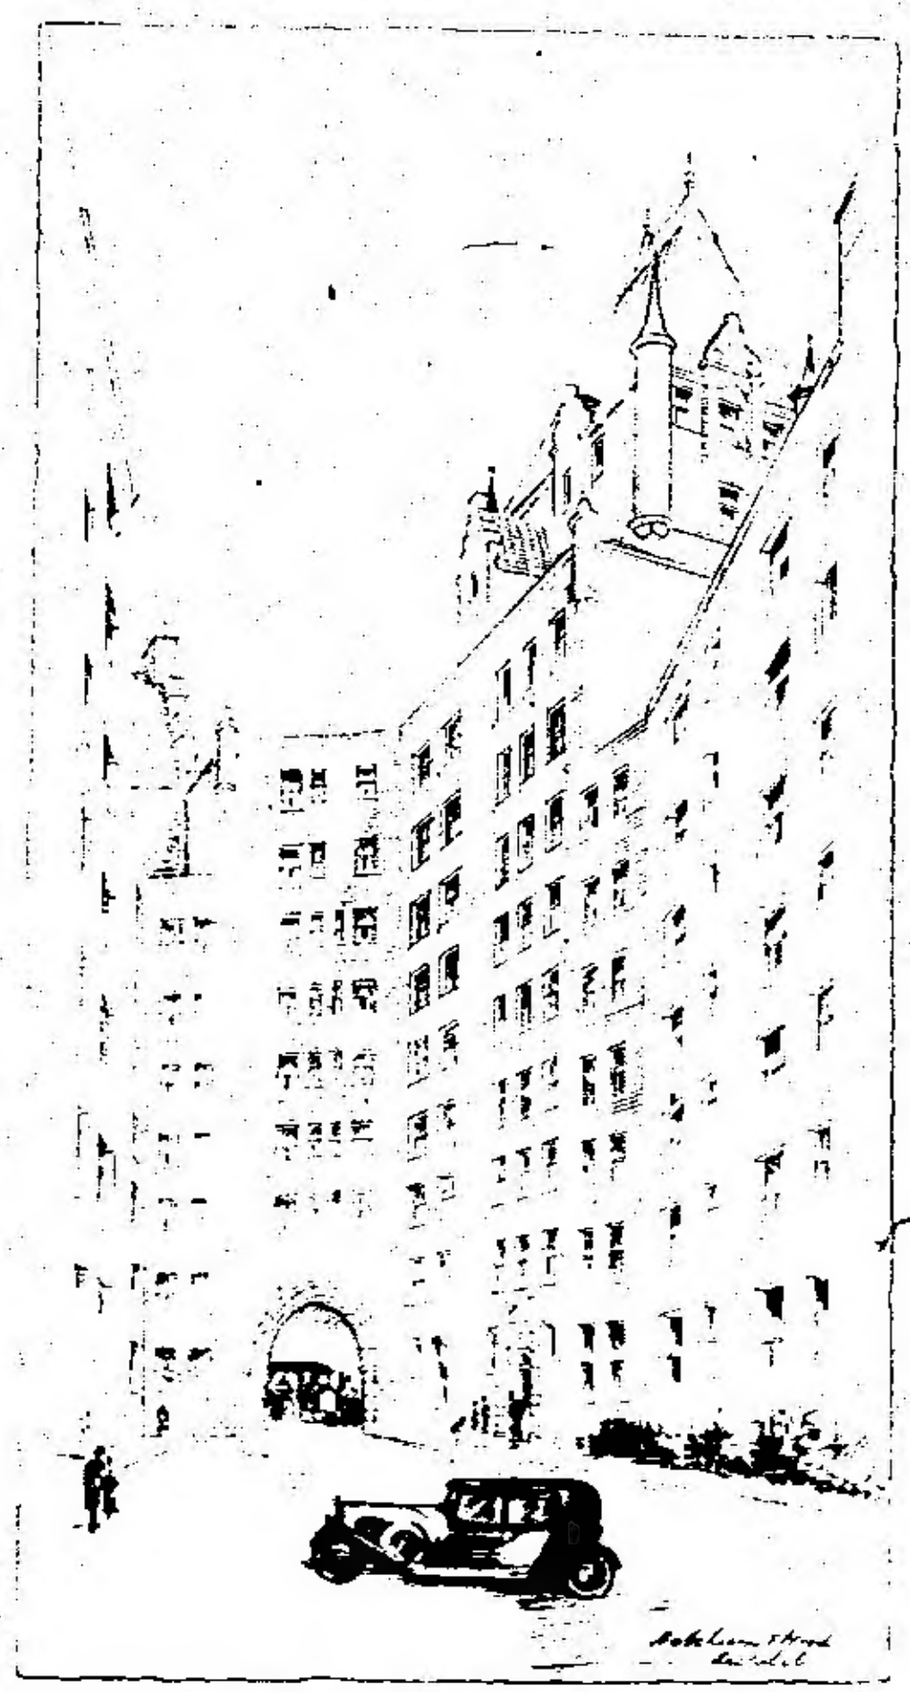
Miss Kallmeyer lives with her sisters, Misses Essie and Clara Kallmeyer, in a big, stately home at 91 South Drive, Rosedale. In the drawing room are paintings and art objects; in the dining room soft lights are reflected from old silver and dark wood. When Mrs. Kallmeyer was alive she was at home to her friends and acquaintances at Purim for so many years that the event was an institution. As a tribute to her dainty, delicate charm and winning manner the spacious rooms were filled with the flower gifts of scores of callers. Young mothers often brought their new babies to Mrs. Kallmeyer and laid them in her arms for a blessing. She is still an inspiration to her artist daughter.

Rabbi Samuel Sachs

Recently Rabbi and Mrs. Sachs, of Toronto, celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary. Their life together has been happy, harmonious, and full of interest with little of the monotony which often characterizes marriage.

"Mutual tolerance," Rabbi Sachs says, "it is one of the factors which help to make marriage a success; being conscious of the fact that marriage is a partnership and each must treat the other with as much respect as he wishes to have returned. Religious observance also helps along."

Friday nights, when a different atmosphere pervades in the home and the wife is dressed in her Sabbath attire, (for no matter how poor the family, there is something new and fresh for Friday eve), the husband looks upon his wife as queen and she in turn looks upon him as king. The observance of the other holidays and the carrying out of the ritual service



Flowers and shrubs enliven the beautiful courtyard of the Trafalgar Apartments. It is open to the westward. There is ample room for a car to enter and swing in a circle.

gives each a new importance in one another's eyes and thus the greatest obstacle in marriage, monotony, is broken.

Rabbi and Mrs. Sachs have three sons, Judah, aged nine; David, five and a half; and Mendel, three and a half.

To parents Rabbi Sachs has a few words to say with regard to the chief problem of young Jewry. "The Jewish young of to-day," he believes, "are not only different in their natural inclinations, predilections and the capacity to learn from the Jewish youth of past generations. But a great deal is wrong with modern Jewish parents. Youth is plastic. Like clay in the hands of the potter, so is youth in the hands of parents. But modern parents do not seem to do any molding. They present to the young the negative example of apathy and indifference to the most important institutions in Jewish life. They display no interest in and as much as possible keep away from the synagogue and the Hebrew School. It is no wonder, then, that, with this example constantly before them, the young men grow up ignorant of Jewish life and as indifferent to things Jewish as their elders are."

Rabbi Sachs has been the rabbi of Goel Tzedec Synagogue on University Avenue for the past three years since he came to Toronto from Atlantic City. He was born in Kovno, Lithuania. He received the degree of rabbi from the Jewish Theological Seminary in 1916 and also attended the Yeshiva Isaac Elchanan for four years before going to the Seminary. He is short, fair, and clean-shaven. Rabbi Sachs lectures Friday evenings in English. His style of address is calm and vigorous and he illustrates his points with one of a vast fund of jokes, yarns, stories and parables. He seems to be shaping the work of our Conservative synagogue with an eye to present and future needs of the young people, modernizing it with that goal in view. The "rebbitzen" who is his help-mate is an up-to-date person with dark eyes and hair and plenty of poise. She is a pianist having taught at the Conservatory of Music in Detroit. They live at 357 Palmerston Blvd.

MARTIN COHN

Once upon a time a youngster was a persistent stealer. His family had used every means they knew of to make him behave and failed. Then they found that the boy was influencing his younger brother to steal. In desperation the sister of the boy came to Martin Cohn. When the case was being investigated a diary belonging to the youngster was found. They learned from this that the boy was sick of the monotony of his life. "Get up in the morning, eat, go to school and sleep. I might just as well end it all. What's the use of going on living?" he wailed. Stealing was his only means of excitement and of relieving the boredom of his existence. Cohn induced him to join a club and discovered from intimate talks with the boy what he would like to do best if he had the materials. He was encouraged in a new interest and so from a little outcast from normal society he has become a happy member.

Martin Cohn, general secretary of the Jewish Boys in Training, of Toronto, directs the gang spirit in boys into healthful, useful channels. Since 1927 when he was appointed secretary, the membership has increased by 300 boys who have been taken off the streets and organized into self-governing clubs or good gangs. Mr. Cohn became interested in boys' work in 1921, when he was a mentor at the University Synagogue in the first group organized by M. M. Cohen. He was then President of the Mentors' Club. Later, in 1925, when the organization expanded, he was put in charge of a branch in the west end of the city. He is intensely interested in the correction of juvenile delinquency and intends to make it his life's job. Outside of this work he was superintendent of the Holy Blossom Religious schools and taught there for about nine years. He was the first president of the Holy Blossom Junior Society and conducted annex services for three years. He was chairman of the committee that organized these services. He is on the executive of the Child Welfare Council of Toronto, formed to co-ordinate all the child welfare activities in the city, and is chairman of the Programme Committee of the University Workers' Association. He obtained honours in philosophy when he graduated from the University of Toronto in 1927, and won the gold medal when he graduated from the Collegiate Department of the Holy Blossom Synagogue.

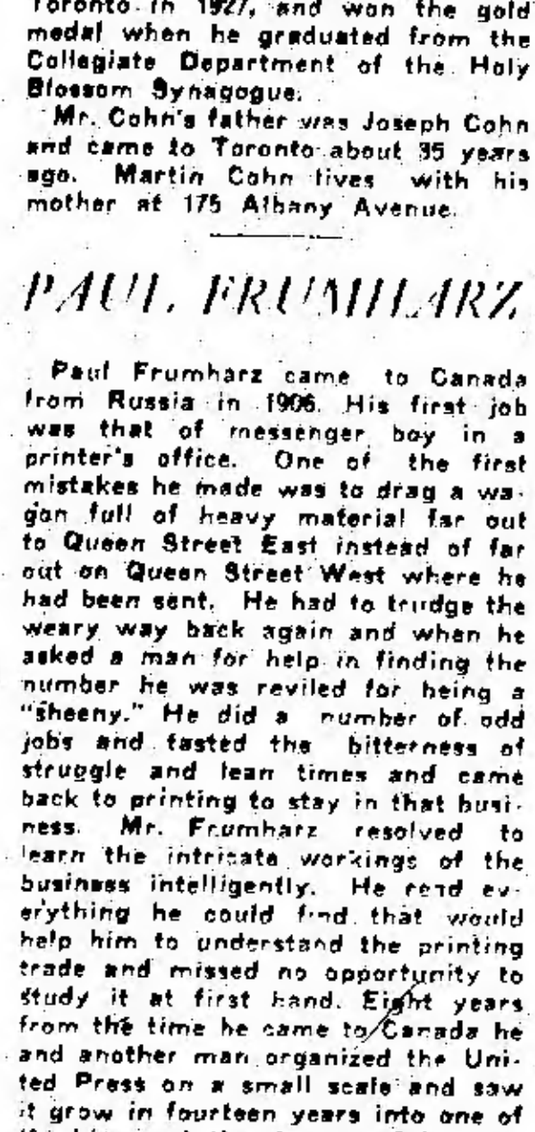
Mr. Cohn's father was Joseph Cohn and came to Toronto about 35 years ago. Martin Cohn lives with his mother at 175 Albany Avenue.

PAUL FRUMHARZ

Paul Frumharz came to Canada from Russia in 1906. His first job was that of messenger boy in a printer's office. One of the first mistakes he made was to drag a wagon full of heavy material far out to Queen Street East instead of far out on Queen Street West where he had been sent. He had to trudge the weary way back again and when he asked a man for help in finding the number he was reviled for being a "sheeny." He did a number of odd jobs and tasted the bitterness of struggle and lean times and came back to printing to stay in that business. Mr. Frumharz resolved to learn the intricate workings of the business intelligently. He read everything he could find that would help him to understand the printing trade and missed no opportunity to study it at first hand. Eight years from the time he came to Canada he and another man organized the United Press on a small scale and saw it grow in fourteen years into one of the large printing houses of Canada.



PAUL FRUMHARZ

Now, on the sunny side of forty, Mr. Frumharz knows all about a fascinating trade and is owner of the Inland Printing House, of Toronto.

A few years after he came here his interest was caught by the Workmen's Circle. This is a Jewish fraternal organization from which the members receive sick benefit and sanitarium service. It carries out an extensive educational program for children and adults and maintains a summer vacation camp. The organization is conducted by a general office in New York from which lecturers are sent out to the centres where the Circle is organized. In some cities the Circle has its own public schools. High schools camps and adult lecture classes. Mr. Frumharz's interest is in the educational work. He is a member of the Central Committee and has been the chairman of the Educational Committee for the past six years. He is a National Director for Ontario, has served in this office for the past three years, and is the only one in Canada who has been re-elected three times in succession. He is chairman of the Camp movement, in existance the past five years, and has attended numerous conventions of the Workmen's Circle in New York and other big cities.

To say that Mr. Frumharz is actively interested in the Workmen's Circle is to state his position too calmly. Meetings and conventions, deliberations and conferences are to Mr. Frumharz what sloe gin is to some men. He could have water on the knee and the outdoors could be covered with a glaze of ice. He might be wound up in the threads of his own business worries or the various troubles that beset people and he would still find the time, strength and means of locomotion necessary to enable him to go to a meeting. Once there Mr. Frumharz might well forget the workaday world, for, about his short, plump, excitable person there is always a group of friends who trust him, swear by him and love him. He is genial and friendly and human. He understands the man who is still wobbly on his feet in the new land. He knows the craving of the worn-out workman for books and ideas and news of the world and its doing. He himself has been in so many situations of gloom or hope that he understands the range of all.

Even Mr. Frumharz's marriage had to do with the organization that is so much of his life. It was while teaching in one of the schools that he met his wife, Minnie Greenesvky, another instructor. They were married in 1913, and have two children, a son, Chaiml, who is six, and a daughter, Esther, more than twice that. They speak Yiddish and English and their participation in Jewish life is on racial grounds, not religious. Their home is on Crawford Street.

Miss Nina Kortsman

Six years ago a young woman by the name of Nina Kortsman, of Toronto, bought a film from Famous Players. It was Hall Caine's "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," and, owing to an anti-church doctrine which the story defended, the picture was not permitted to be shown here. Miss Kortsman took it to South Africa. It made a tremendous hit there and she earned a lot of money on it. "Many, many thousands," Miss Kortsman admits. It took sixteen, sometimes eighteen hours work a day to achieve that and still Miss Kortsman came home thinking South Africa a wonderful place and also with the impression that there was no race discrimination in that country. Now, on December 15th, this business woman plans to open a high-class restaurant on King Street, where people will be able to come in their most beautiful clothes. Miss Kortsman's ambition is to sell them some of those clothes and to make them want to appear all dressed up in her new restaurant.

This enterprising woman runs the Dorienne French Ensemble Ltd., on Bloor Street in Toronto, where shops are many, smart and lovely. Walls of two-toned sand, a pea-green rug, rose-tinted lights, artistic furniture, small etchings all combine to form an elegant setting for the woman whose slim, supple figure adds grace to the picture.

When the interviewer arrived Miss Kortsman was waiting on a customer who was asking for a sport dress. Her request for that type of garment was affably disregarded, Miss Kortsman showing her instead an afternoon frock of rich black velvet trimmed with costly rose point lace. The customer was entranced with it, but she reiterated her request for a sport dress. Miss Kortsman pleasantly continued to bring forth from mysterious recesses of the shop, dresses of shimmering silk, fine net and lustrous satin. When finally the customer was departing she had not only decided upon a $55 sport dress but was become aware that she needed an afternoon frock, the one with the nice point face having already taken her fancy. In addition to a turquoise blue evening gown which she thought ought to be added to her wardrobe.

It all looked so easy. But Miss Kortsman says it is anything but that. Her type of store can not depend on the passing trade. Each customer is a definite, dependable asset. The people who buy imported goods must not be offended at any price. They must not be revolted by crude salesmanship. To sell a woman an afternoon frock and an evening gown in addition to the sport dress which she came to buy must be done without a wrinkle. It takes tact, long experience, and a concentration which is the most fatiguing.

This proprietor had had no previous experience in business when she opened this store. Ignorance was bliss, she says. Otherwise it could have been called courage and daring. She did not realize the seriousness of what she was doing and was therefore unhampered by the many fears that might have assailed someone who knew what it was all about. Miss Kortsman says that a business career is very hard and all-absorbing and once women have had a generous taste of it they may not want it. They are constitutionally weaker than men and she thinks this often stands in the way of their success.

Mr. and Mrs. Lazar Levinson

Lazar Levinson came from South America 21 years ago. His first and only job in Canada was in the delicatessen store on Queen Street that he now owns. He worked for someone else there, for eleven years, saved enough money, bought the place and then brought his wife and family here from Buenos Aires. The acquisition of this store was the realization of his fondest dream. As he worked the many lonely years before his family came to Toronto, Lazar looked forward with excitement and joy to the time when his wife and family would join him and he could show them, his wife in particular, the position he had risen to in becoming owner of the store he once worked in.

Perhaps his wife didn't realize the romance of owning a store in which you had once been employed and that the employee sees more in it than may appear to the person who takes a casual glance at it. When Lazar proudly displayed to her their future place of business, she said it looked like nothing else but a chicken coop to her and to this day, even after hearing about her husband's hardships many times, she does not give him credit for buying anything else but a chicken coop. But she stepped in with her three children and helped to make things hum. It did not take long before the so-called chicken coop took on the appearance of a store. Mrs. Levinson is a fine cook. She experimented with a sorts of delicacies and soon her fame spread about Toronto.

Lazar himself is the inn-keeper type. Many a youth can testify that for years Lazar has been slipping in extra bits of hot corned beef into sandwiches which apparently were already filled to capacity. He is fat but nervous and quick and darts or dashes here, there, and yon. He is jolly and kindly except when talking to the bread man over the telephone and then he taps a pencil ferociously, glares into the mouthpiece, and gives a delighted audience an ear about the order that hasn't come yet and the loaves in stock that are being sliced away while you look at them.

Speaking of bread, Lazar's used to require only a couple of loaves a day. Now they buy about 2,000 loaves a week, not counting buns for weiners; and 1,000 pounds of corned beef in addition to other meats and fowl. There is about $50,000 worth of equipment in the store including the frigidaire. Upstairs is Old Spain which must often make Lazar rub his eyes and pinch himself and wonder where he is. Old Spain has moral decorations of romantic suggestions, and a floor in many colors and furniture to match. Parties are given there and dinner dances with an orchestra making merry. Old Spain may be grand but it is downstairs where you run into people from all over town especially those who flee from domestic staffs that know not pickled herring and gefilte fish.

The Levinsons built up this business entirely by themselves, Mr. and Mrs. Levinson, their two sons, Jack and Sam, and their daughter, Lucia, who is now married and has a delicatessen store of her own on Bloor Street. The story of their rise is one of hard work and long hours. They did their own scrubbing, cooking, pickling and the many other tasks necessary to a business like theirs. To-day they have 25 people doing the work they once did all by themselves.

"The papers say business is picking up, Mrs. Levinson, don't you notice an improvement in your line?

"Sure, the only picking up is the papers from the floor," was the answer. "People don't eat like they used to. I remember a few years ago a girl and boy used to come in, they would sit down and order a meal, soup, chicken, dessert and tea. Now they come in: "I only want one thin sandwich, please, lean meat and cut the bread thin. I'm on a diet,' the girl says. The boy sees the girl doesn't eat much, so he only eats three or four sandwiches. Do you call that eating?" Mrs. Levinson questioned.

Incredible as it may sound, Lazar's have suffered a decrease of 50% in their sales since dieting became the vogue several years ago. Men eat sandwiches, on which there is very little profit to be made, instead of ordering a meal as they used to do. Lazar also notices that the younger generation do not eat as heavily as did their parents. "Before, a lady used to come in and buy for three or four dollars food, now the same lady buys for 75c. or a dollar. When we ask her why she used to buy so much before and now nothing, she says, "Mine children don't eat a lot, one's afraid she gets fat, the other has digestion.' You never used to hear of that before," Lazar tragically moans.

Mr. and Mrs. Levinson are looking forward to the time when they will be able to retire, which they expect will be very soon. Their son Jack is engaged and their other son, Sam, is going to be. They have three stores now, one on Bloor Street, which they gave to their daughter when she married; the one on Queen Street and Old Spain; and another at Church and Yonge which was opened just about six months ago. Each of the sons will be given a share when he marries.

The Poale Zion Party

they lose their appetite for socialism, and as far as Zionism is concerned, become either anti-Zionists, or, at best, regular Zionists.

Then there is this phase: Whereas under the earlier conditions, the economic and social aspects of Jewish life were fully comprehended in the formulas of socialism, they are now more complicated and cannot be forced into a mold of socialism. It follows therefore that the program of Poale Zionism does not deal with reality when it handles the content of its socialist formulas. Jewish proletarian life is not so simple that it can be covered by the concept of socialism. The socialist half of Poale Zionism is not as full of meat and substance as it used to be.

Then again, we now have this new condition that Jewish labor is no longer narrowly internationalist and hostile to Jewish nationalism. Even Ab. Cahan and the Forward are now sympathetic to Zionism. The chief function of Poale Zionism, namely, that of nationalizing the Jewish proletariat, has now therefore lost a good deal of its significance. When you remove Ab. Cahan and the Forward from the list of its enemies, there is hardly anybody or anything left for it to fight.

Finally, it is clear that the center of gravity in Zionism has been removed from the sphere of conflict between nationalism and internationalism into the sphere of Palestine concerns. Formulas that cover the relationship between Zionism and socialism do not touch the raw of the Zionist problem. Our main problem now concerns itself with our achievement and prospects and possibilities in Palestine; with our relationship with the mandatory power; with our reaction to the recent developments in the political sphere. And here the special recipes of Poale Zionism are of little avail. They were vital and concrete during a different stage of Zionism development. They are obsolete and ineffective at the present stage.

Poale Zionism may yet produce new Syrkins and Boruchovs—theoreticians and leaders who will discover a new plot of firm ground in the midst of the present flux of perplexities and bewilderments, and there rear a new structure of radical ideology. It might then yet offer the Jewish world a flaming message of concrete idealism. But assuredly among its present leaders, there are not discernible and such gigantic figures. And the party is hopelessly floundering.

Chanukah — The Feast of Lights

Beginning with Sunday evening, December 14, 1930, and lasting for a period of eight days, the Jewish people will celebrate the Feast of Lights, called in Jewish life Chanukah. The observance of this festival is characterized by the lighting of candles in both home and synagogue during the 8 days. While it marks one of the monumental military victories of ancient Israel over the predatory hosts of the Syrians, the import and significance of this mid-winter festival unfold themselves primarily in its spiritual essence.

The spiritual message of this celebration has its roots in the historic experiences of the Jewish people. When about 200 B. C. E. the Syrians sought to overthrow the rising power of Rome in Egypt, they had to occupy Palestine which is the corridor to Egypt. In the year 168 B. C. E. Antiochus Epiphanes actually succeeded in subjecting Palestine to his rule. He even marched into Jerusalem and plundered its inhabitants, murdering and putting to death those who opposed his path.

Along with political subjection Antiochus Epiphanes sought the cultural and spiritual subjection of Palestine. He thought that necessary in order to complete his domination of Judah. Thus he commanded the burning of the Torah and the execution of those who dared to study it. He ordered the pollution of the Temple by consecrating it to a shrine for Jupiter. He brought torture upon those who dared hold fast to the Jewish practices and rewarded those who succumbed to his will and adopted the ways of the Syrians. In brief by dint of persecution he sought to abolish Judaism as the living force of Israel and to establish in its stead his barbaric form of Hellenism.

At Modin, a village in Palestine there lived at that time a priest by the name of Mathathias. His Judean spirit was aroused by the suffering of his people and by its spiritual slavery. He stirred the hearts of his sons known as the Maccabees, and gathered a small band of patriotic Jews about his cause. With the cry of freedom upon its lips, this small band fought against the Syrian forces for a period of three years. Finally in the year 16 B. C. E. the Maccabees routed the Syrian army from Jerusalem and victoriously entered its temple. With song and praise they rededicated it to the worship of God and instituted Chanukah to commemorate this triumph of the spirit.

Throughout the ages Chanukah spoke to the Jewish people of the struggle of its spirit with the cultural forces around about. The courage which the Jew lit inspired him to rededicate himself to the struggle of mankind for freedom of thought. Today this message of Chanukah needs be proclaimed even as in ages past for the forces of darkness still are rampant. By lighting Chanukah candles today the Jew testifies to the immortal faith of mankind at large in the faith that freedom will triumph over persecution, that darkness must make way for light, that the world is to be governed not by power nor by might but by the spirit of divinity which is indwelling within man.

Sketches of Interesting People in the Jewish Community of Toronto

By LEAH SOLLY

Mrs. Joshua Smith

Mrs. Joshua Smith, wife of the English-Jewish portrait painter, has been actor, author, poet, business woman, and politician and is still a young woman. She has flashing dark eyes and a flashing smile and is a woman of the world with a lot of assurance, courage, and fire. She can serve tea and cakes or make a speech or sell advertising or read her poetry.

Ray Lewis was born in Toronto, and attended the public schools here, Harbord Collegiate and the University of Toronto. She studied singing and elocution at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. Her first opportunity to show ability came when Ellen Terry was in Toronto playing in "Richard III." There was a small part open in the play, and the elocution teacher at the Conservatory, asked to choose one of his students for the part, selected Ray Lewis. An actor playing in Faust borrowed a little velvet tam-o-shanter of hers to use with his costume. She was very flattered at the attention, but did not feel so elated when he went off without returning it to her.

When only thirteen, Miss Lewis went on the road together with the elocution class which Harold Nelson Shaw was directing. They were a juvenile company and were made much of by the press agents. Every night they were lavishly wined, dined and entertained, that is the director and older members of the Company. The juvenile actors, however, were sent off to bed at a suitable hour for children. Miss Lewis, as leading lady of the company, retained the privilege of staying up until nine o'clock and drinking a little gingerale and then went off, reluctantly, to bed. The press agents thought this merely a publicity stunt and a good one too, as they did not believe this young lady was only thirteen. But Miss Lewis thought being sent to bed when her elders were allowed to stay up, a grave injustice.

Her stage career really seriously began when she was sent for to play the role of Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," the woman who was to have played that part having been taken ill. She was asked to join the company and it was while touring with this company that she suffered a mishap which has since caused her some vexation. In a scene depicting the eruption of a volcano, the property men, who were supposed to knock down a number of large pillars, omitted to throw one over. Miss Lewis, in her zeal to aid the show in every possible way, attempted to. Part of the pillar fell on her nose. She was rendered unconscious and was not able to say her lines in the last act. "That accounts for my rather prominent nose," she says with mock tragedy. Remembering how she had secured the role of Portia, she would not give up her part to an understudy the next night but with a bandaged nose, apologizing to the audience, played her own part. Finally, at the age of twenty-three, she retired from the stage, having played everything from "Uncle Tom's Cabin," to "Romeo and Juliet."

Miss Lewis returned to Toronto to do social service work. For some time holding the position of interpreter at the Toronto General and

...she sold her first motion picture scenario, "Love's Garden of Dreams," and in 1915 she became associated with the Canadian Moving Picture Digest, writing special articles, and looking after the advertising. In 1916 she published a volume of poems called "Songs of Earth." Mrs. Smith is owner of the Moving Picture Digest, with offices in the Miller Building on Spadina Avenue. She also dabbles in real estate and is negotiating with the city for the sale of the Princess Theatre. Last year she entered, for the first time in her life, the political field. She represented the west centre riding for the Dominion Parliament.

Several months ago Mr. and Mrs. Smith took a trip to England and met delegates to the Imperial Conference, among them the wife of Begum Shah Nawaz, the only woman delegate, and a pleader for rights for women of India. They went to the reception given by H. H. and Miss Sprought at the Mayfair Hotel in London. Mr. and Mrs. Smith live at 25 McKenzie Avenue in a home which was built to include a studio with a living room two stories high. Their life is the full busy life of people attracted by events and personalities. They are among the few Jews in Toronto whose social life is not centered entirely in the Jewish community. The picture which accompanies this article is after a portrait painted by Mr. Smith, who is a member of the Royal British Academy.

Joseph Kerbel

Working from eight in the morning until 12 midnight at four dollars a week in a fur factory was how Joseph Kerbel began his business career when he came to America eight years ago.

He was 16 years old then, with the farming characteristic of a handsome, responsible and healthy youth. He asked his employer, from whom he was getting four dollars a week, if he would take him in as a partner. It is hard to say whether this employer was just a kindly soul trying to help a young messenger boy, or very sagacious, whether he was shrewd enough to see the cleverness and sound business judgment of the boy. Kerbel was required to put $200 into the business. He got this money from some relatives and thus became a member of the capitalist class. His salary was raised from four to fifteen dollars a week. It was not long before he became dissatisfied with this employer, however, severed connections and started the National Fur Company himself.

To-day the company is worth $60,000 and it all happened in eight years' time. This firm has never had a fire, failure or settlement. Shrewd buying and careful selling are the factors responsible for its growth.

The fur business is different from other clothing businesses in that it is not styles that the firm must be the first to show, but shades. The man who buys seven or eight thousand dollars' worth of raw skins at one time must be exceedingly careful that these skins are dyed to the exact and newest shade known. If he fails in this, his buy will entail a staggering loss.

Then there is the problem of imitations. When a new skin comes on the market there is immediately an imitation made from cheaper skins dyed to look like the genuine. Is it wise to buy a lot of the imitation or should one buy up the genuine skins? Sometimes the imitations will not take and then it is more valuable to have the genuine. If one buys the genuine, however, and the imitations are good and the demand for them is heavy, not only do the genuine skins go down in price but it is almost impossible to get rid of them. There has been a tremendous decrease in the price of staple furs since dyers have been able to make such excellent imitations.

Galyac is a skin which was put on the market two years ago. At first the genuine Galyac was extremely expensive because of its rarity. The skins for this fur are procured from a Russian or Chinese unborn lamb and in order to get them it is necessary to kill the mother lamb. These skins in black have an exceedingly beautiful lustre. However, very little of the genuine skins are used now since the discovery has been made that skins very similar may be obtained from an animal known as the Russian Berandick. These animals are more numerous than the lambs and the correct name for their skins is Galdina but it is referred to by the fur manufacturers as Galyac. The greatest part of the furrier's buying is done in Europe.

A fur coat made properly is a difficult feat to perform. When a coat or dress is made from cloth, the cloth is merely placed on a pattern and is cut. But with a fur coat the skins must be cut in all sorts of variegated shapes and sizes. Not only for the purpose of fitting, which is difficult, but for matching also, this is done.

He attended public and high schools and paid his way through college. In 1925 he was called to the Ontario Bar, at the age of 25, and began practice in Windsor as a member of the firm of Sheppard, Sheppard, Levine and Croll. His next eldest brother, Leo, two years younger than David, is a graduate of medicine from the University of Michigan and a post-graduate of New York General Hospital and John Hopkins in Baltimore. Cecil, born in Windsor 21 years ago, will graduate in law from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, at the end of the present college year. The only girl in the family, Evelyn, now 20, is a dental hygienist in Detroit. David Croll for some years, has been secretary of the West Essex Liberal Association. I wholly disapprove of what you say and will defend to the death your right to say it.—Voltaire to Helvetius

DECEMBER 12, 1930 VOLUME XII, NUMBER 8

To watch a cutter cut a strip of fur perhaps a quarter of an inch wide from one part of a skin and stick it on another seems a silly task to the onlooker but it is all required to make a coat. The sewing of these pieces together seems like the assembling of a paper puzzle. At one time it was necessary to sew all these pieces together by hand using an overhand stitch, now there are machines which do it quickly and efficiently.

Mr. Kerbel knows every trick in the tricky bag of the fur business. His employees are unusually fond of him. There is a general manager and also a bookkeeper whose special privilege it is to scold and censure him as though he were the employee and they his employers. Unlike most men who have risen in power and authority in a short time and can't get used to the fact but must be continually showing off to their employees, Joe, as even his messenger boy calls him, seems to forget that it is he who is owner and boss of the National Fur Co. In spite of his easy-going ways, and his youth, Mr. Kerbel's acumen and authority to speak on furs are well-known to his outside business associates.

Two years ago Mr. Kerbel married. "The most beautiful girl in Toronto," he says, and this is no vain boast of an adoring husband for his wife was in the final group in a beauty contest at Sunnyside when Miss Toronto was chosen shortly before she was married. Her name was Bertha Sky. They have a bewitching baby, Sharon, six months of age and they live at No. 13 Heathdale Road.

people, as the rulers of Russia are today being portrayed in as hateful colors as in 1913 we painted the Kaiser and the Hun.

We have not the space here to produce all the mass of evidence available to refute these dangerous hymns of hate which are today being chanted. We can merely urge that our readers peruse most critically their daily papers, and seek elsewhere as well—such as in the liberal periodicals or authentic books, for reliable information on Russia. Else a war psychosis might soon develop which, fed on the economic fears being everywhere aroused, might ere long plunge us into a gory battle from which none will emerge alive. We must guard ourselves against this deliberate wave of anti-Russian sentiment, for with all its obvious faults, its acknowledged shortcomings and objectionable features, there is much that we can learn from this experiment. The evil cannot conquer if we set our own house in order. We must cease arousing hatred and enmity both here and in the land of the Soviet, that, through sympathetic understanding and rational cooperation, the ideal of equity and justice set free in Russia might peacefully and without violence or force or bloodshed be established upon this earth. If we will but read and study this most complex and contentious of all contemporary problems, mayhap we too will come to feel with the poet:

"There is no other nation with a birth
Ancient as wanderings of Tartar hordes,
Yet new as the wild mare's plunge in thawing streams,
Through turbulent War and Revolution she came forth,
A child unchangeably, yet with the spell
Of centuries upon her; she came forth
To find world brotherhood. Ironic fate!
Led through fraternal slaughter, and she looked Celestially for peace and there appeared
No visible weapon, but the avenging sword,
No path of travail known to man,
But her young feet shall tread thereon.
From civil battle ground and famine wasted town,
And altar and green field she must bear sign
And symbol of the sufferings of man;
Till all are visited, all relics brought
Out of a secret place; when kneeling down
She shall invoke the fire of heaven thereon;
The fire of heaven, kindling them, shall draw
Unto her all the lowly of the earth,
And stars, beholding one by one, shall stoop
To warm their hands at her immortal flame."

His is a record that everyone will honor. The record of that family is one which should inspire not only their own thrifty and industrial race, but all other Canadians who face adversity and mean to conquer it.

THANK YOU RABBI SILVER

A few weeks ago we printed in this column Tolstoi's excellent legend—"How Much Land Does a Man Need?". The author of the English version of this story as we had printed it, is the gifted Rabbi A. H. Silver, of Cleveland. The original of Tolstoi's legend is rather lengthy but Dr. Silver condensed it and recounted it in his own dramatic style. We are grateful to our friend for the most beautiful rendition of this famous legend.

Because we keep that fact in mind is the reason why City Dairy milk has enjoyed the confidence of Toronto mothers for over 30 years.

City Dairy milk is excellent milk . . . it doesn't "just measure up" to the standard for good milk . . . but goes well beyond it. For your children's sake we welcome you to visit our plant and spend the short time necessary to satisfy yourself that you should give them City Dairy milk. NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming, and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

For free copies write: G. A. ELLIOTT, Director of Colonization, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario. "Please mention this paper."
